Khrushchev Blasts Again At U.S. Aid

Tells Indian Group America Uses It As New Colonial Policy

BHILAI, India (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev told Indian steel workers today that the emergence of a strong Communist bloc is the only reason the West is granting economic aid to undeveloped nations.

For the second day the Soviet Premier hammered on the theme that Western aid is a new version of old "colonialist policies." He spoke at a steel plant being built here in central India with Soviet assistance.

Khrushchev charged in an extemporaneous speech at a banquet Sunday night that Western aid to India and other undeveloped countries is designed to hold them "in capitalist slavery."

Speaking from a text today, he declared: "The Soviet Union and the West have two different approaches to aid. The Soviet Union strives to achieve economic aid which promotes economic independence. But some people in the West utilize assistance as a weapon of a new colonial policy."

Only such factors as the development of socialism (communism) and the failure of colonialism brought aid to the underdeveloped nations," he told the Indian workers.

Khrushchev accused the West of being interested primarily in supplying consumer goods and keeping new nations without industry. He contrasted this with Soviet policy of giving aid to specific industrial projects. Western aid actually has bolstered the entire Indian economy, and particularly agricultural production in the ununderfed nation of 415 million population.

Norwegian Students Boo Mikoyan Remarks

By HELLICK O. HAUGEN

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Anastas I. Mikoyan planned quiet talks with Norwegian government officials today after a rough reception from students Sunday night.

The students booed the Soviet Deputy premier for charging former Hungarian freedom fighters given refuge in Norway were criminals and laughed at his assertion there are no political prisoners in the Soviet Union.

Mikoyan spoke before the Norwegian Students Assn. shortly after arriving in Oslo for a two-day stopover on his way home from Cuba, where he signed a big trade agreement with Fidel Castro's government.

The crowd of 800 applauded his pleas for peace and the glowing account he gave of the Soviet Union's growing industrial might. But an uproar came when someone asked him about Soviet suppression of the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

Mikoyan replied that the Soviet government had been asked to help crush the "arch-reactionary, criminal, American - instigated rebels."

"And those Hungarian students you have here are criminals with blood on their hands," he added angrily.

The students drowned out the Soviet leader with boos, whistles and shouts.

Mikoyan met with derisive laughter when he declared: "In our country no one is in jail for his political convictions. Our people are so unified that it is not necessary to jail anyone for political beliefs."

Over the laughter he shouted: "In the United States many Communists are in jail, even if they are no danger to the state."

The death, Columbiana County's fifth so far this year compared to one this time in 1959, was ruled accidental by Dr. William Kolozsi, coroner.

Area Begins Digging Out After Crippling Snowfall

Hancock Hit Along With Other Areas

Schools Are Closed And Roads Blocked In West Virginia

By The Associated Press

Schools in more than 20 counties in West Virginia were closed today because of the heavy fall of snow during the worst storm in the state this winter.

Roads in all sections were either extremely dangerous or closed.

The storm was part of one that hit the whole of the eastern United States north from the Carolinas. It was the southern edge that was felt in West Virginia.

Heavy snow began falling early Saturday morning. Within 24 hours there was an average accumulation of a foot. The Northern Panhandle had the most snow - up to 16 inches - and without exception the schools in Brooke, Hancock, Ohio and Marshall counties were closed.

State police said that the highways in all sections were kept in a usable state, but that drivers needed chains or snow tires, and even then had to be extremely cautious.

The secondary roads did not get the same attention. Many of them were not plowed or cindered and remained impassable.

Because of the difficulty of getting to and from classes, all schools were ordered closed in these other counties, for at least today and perhaps tomorrow:

Mason, Logan, Wirt, Raleigh, Lincoln, Ritchie, Putnam, Kanawha, Mercer, Summers, Monroe, Fayette, Wyoming, Wood, Jackson and Preston.

In Cabell, Randolph and Nicholas counties, only the schools along the main highways were open.

The Weather Bureau warned that another storm was shaping up in the Gulf of Mexico and might well bring more snow to the state tonight or tomorrow.

The first driving fall closed airports. Kanawha Airport, Tri-State Airport and the Wood County Airport did not re-open until last night. The Elkins Airport then reported one foot of snow was still on the runways.

Flurries continued through the night, and the cold was aggravated.

Temperatures were predicted to fall to from 5 to 15 degrees above zero.

Highs today were to get into only the 20s or low 30s, but the wind was to abate.

With the lighter, intermittent fall of snow yesterday, conditions improved somewhat.

At Charleston, Greyhound Lines resumed service to all points. The company had suspended service the day before to the east and south.

The Ohio Valley Bus Co. which serves the Huntington-Ashland, Ky.-Ironton, Ohio areas, hoped to get its buses rolling again today, after shutting down Saturday night for the first time in 24 years.

Thieves Break Window And Flee With Watches

Working quietly in the blanket of snow that covered the city, thieves stole four watches valued at $206.90 from a display window at Shaw's Jewelry, 513 Washington St., early Sunday morning, police reported.

Police said an unidentified man heard the sound of breaking glass and called police, who found the burglar alarm sounding when they arrived.

Officers said the thief used a brick to smash the side display window and reach in and remove the watches. Store officials said the loot, all Bulova watches, included a Clipper model valued at $71.95, a Senator worth $35.95 and two 21-jewel watches worth $49.50 each.

Eastern U.S. Staggered

By The Associated Press

Winter's most violent weather, a two-ply combination of gale-whipped snow and sleet, staggered most of the Eastern quarter of the country over the weekend.

The crippling storm, which left a blanket of snow across the Southland, hammered more than a dozen Eastern states Sunday.

It diminished during the night but snow and strong winds continued to lash areas from the upper Ohio Valley into New York and New England. Winds of 40 m.p.h. pounded sections of New York causing considerable drifting of snow.

Deaths from the weekend of stormy weather, winter's worst in many areas, mounted to at last 38. Most of them were attributed to heart attacks while shoveling snow or in accidents on icy or snow-slicked highways.

Property damage was expected to run into the thousands of dollars.

The roving storm, after plastering Dixie with as much as 16 inches of snow, rocked areas from eastern Ohio to the Atlantic Coast and into New England.

Travel—air, highway and train—was sharply curtailed. Thousands of autos and trucks were abandoned on snow-clogged highways, in rural areas and in cities. Scores of air flights were canceled. Train and bus service slowed. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was among the hundreds stranded in the worst storm in 10 years in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Hundreds of schools from Ohio into Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina were ordered closed today. Other schools in the snow-bound Northeast were not expected to open. Driving conditions were hazardous from Ohio into deep in the South and across the Northeast snow belt.

Cold weather was an added misery in the Northeast storm zone. Temperatures were in the teens in most of the snow-covered sections from eastern Kentucky and Tennessee into New York.

Biting, gusty winds off Lake Erie drifted snow up to 10 feet high in upstate New York. The ground was covered with falls up to 18 inches. More than a foot of snow was general in many areas.

The severe winds churned up abnormally high tides against the New England coast. Swirling waters blocked dozens of roads on the Connecticut shoreline.

Gale warnings remained displayed from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Eastport, Maine. The sleet which pelted New England areas changed to snow as colder air swept into the storm belt.

Pennsylvania, which had an unofficial snowfall of 20 inches in Bradford, reported 9 deaths attributed to the stormy weather.

The South also counted a heavy toll in storm deaths, including 7 in Virginia, which was hit by snowfalls up to 16 inches. Other deaths included 6 in New Jersey; 5 in New York; 3 each in Tennessee, Ohio and Kentucky; 2 in North Carolina and 1 each in Louisiana, Mississippi and Massachusetts.

WHAT PARKING PROBLEM? A parking problem of a different sort was posed for motorists who ventured onto E. 5th St. Sunday. The problem was not lack of space, but the huge piles of snow alongside curbs that threatened to trap the unwary driver. This view of generally deserted E. 5th St. was taken in early afternoon.

City Schools Will Resume On Tuesday

Incinerator Workers Join City's Cleanup In Downtown Area

Moderating temperatures and clear skies allowed the East Liverpool district to go to work in earnest today on the monumental task of digging out after a weekend snowstorm that built up an accumulation of 12 inches — with drifts ranging up to 3 feet — closing most tri-state schools and creating one of the worst traffic and parking problems in years.

Director Suspends Meter Enforcement

Parking meter regulations were suspended today by Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver. The director emphasized the regulations are expected to be resumed Tuesday.

He also commended city residents for their cooperation and patience during the snow emergency.

Snow-removal work continued today throughout Columbiana, Beaver and Hancock Counties, although most main arteries were passable by Sunday afternoon. But secondary streets and highways still were covered with a heavy accumulation of snow that will require several days' work before traffic gets back to normal.

The Ohio weatherman had one encouraging word for a storm - groggy area — no more snow is in sight at least for today, tonight or Tuesday and temperatures will remain comparatively moderate.

Although the snow built up to a depth of 11 to 12 inches in the immediate East Liverpool area, some of the rural regions to the north and west escaped with a lighter accumulation.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, reported a total fall of 7 inches. It was the heaviest accumulation noted at his weather station since the 9-inch fall of November 28, 1958, he said.

There was a total accumulation of 10 inches in December 1958, but it was the result of storms that continued over a span of several days, Copeland explained.

High winds added to the trouble, drifting snow in exposed locations to depths of 3 feet or more. Bitter cold added to the difficulty of snow removal. Dam 8 at Newell recorded a high of 25 degrees at 1 p. m. Sunday. The overnight low was 12 at 5 this morning. The Millport station had a low of 7 degrees. The unofficial low at Fredericktown last night was 2 below zero.

The heavy snow brought closing of both public and parochial schools in East Liverpool and Wellsville. It also affected all

Mrs. Roosevelt Home After Being Snowbound

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to New York today, none the worse for being marooned several hours aboard a stranded bus on a snow-clogged Pennsylvania highway.

She arrived by train from Pittsburgh at 8:20 a.m. and sped by taxicab to her apartment after telling newsmen she was fine.

She had been caught Sunday night in southwestern Pennsylvania's worst snow storm in 10 years.

The former first lady, weary but unruffled, finished the last leg of an 11-hour, 200-mile trip from Columbus, Ohio, to Pittsburgh in a state police patrol car.

"There was nothing peculiar about the trip at all except I didn't get where I hoped to be," the 75-year-old world traveler said while buying a train ticket to New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt had hoped to be at an Israel bond rally, where she was slated as the principal speaker. The snowstorm, which dumped about 12 inches of snow, changed her plans.

Mystery Sub Still At Large Off Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's frustrated navy today pressed its attack on a mystery submarine with new deep - level U.S. depth charges, but the quarry evaded capture.

As the hunt went into its 17th day, naval officials said their ships were being harassed by a second sub which had slipped through the guarded entrance to Golfo Nuevo in an effort to divert the chase from its apparently damaged comrade.

All Argentina waited for "operation sinking" to produce some results after Navy Secretary Gaston Clement's boast Sunday that the search would reach a climax "in a matter of hours."

The United States said it has no information of any of its subs in the area. The British deny the subs are theirs. And the Soviet embassy Sunday night issued a statement saying no Russian warship is near the Argentine coast.

Officers said the thief used a brick to smash the side display window and reach in and remove the watches. Store officials said the loot, all Bulova watches, included a Clipper model valued at $71.95, a Senator worth $35.95 and two 21-jewel watches worth $49.50 each.

Six Perish In Fire

BEND, Ore. (AP) — Flames flashed through a two-story frame house here Sunday, killing four children, their mother and her sister

Eastern U.S. Staggered

By The Associated Press

Winter's most violent weather, a two-ply combination of gale-whipped snow and sleet, staggered most of the Eastern quarter of the country over the weekend.

The crippling storm, which left a blanket of snow across the Southland, hammered more than a dozen Eastern states Sunday.

It diminished during the night but snow and strong winds continued to lash areas from the upper Ohio Valley into New York and New England. Winds of 40 m.p.h. pounded sections of New York causing considerable drifting of snow.

Deaths from the weekend of stormy weather, winter's worst in many areas, mounted to at last 38. Most of them were attributed to heart attacks while shoveling snow or in accidents on icy or snow-slicked highways.

Property damage was expected to run into the thousands of dollars.

The roving storm, after plastering Dixie with as much as 16 inches of snow, rocked areas from eastern Ohio to the Atlantic Coast and into New England.

Travel—air, highway and train—was sharply curtailed. Thousands of autos and trucks were abandoned on snow-clogged highways, in rural areas and in cities. Scores of air flights were canceled. Train and bus service slowed. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was among the hundreds stranded in the worst storm in 10 years in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Hundreds of schools from Ohio into Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina were ordered closed today. Other schools in the snow-bound Northeast were not expected to open. Driving conditions were hazardous from Ohio into deep in the South and across the Northeast snow belt.

Cold weather was an added misery in the Northeast storm zone. Temperatures were in the teens in most of the snow-covered sections from eastern Kentucky and Tennessee into New York.

Biting, gusty winds off Lake Erie drifted snow up to 10 feet high in upstate New York. The ground was covered with falls up to 18 inches. More than a foot of snow was general in many areas.

The severe winds churned up abnormally high tides against the New England coast. Swirling waters blocked dozens of roads on the Connecticut shoreline.

Gale warnings remained displayed from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Eastport, Maine. The sleet which pelted New England areas changed to snow as colder air swept into the storm belt.

Pennsylvania, which had an unofficial snowfall of 20 inches in Bradford, reported 9 deaths attributed to the stormy weather.

The South also counted a heavy toll in storm deaths, including 7 in Virginia, which was hit by snowfalls up to 16 inches. Other deaths included 6 in New Jersey; 5 in New York; 3 each in Tennessee, Ohio and Kentucky; 2 in North Carolina and 1 each in Louisiana, Mississippi and Massachusetts.

WHAT PARKING PROBLEM? A parking problem of a different sort was posed for motorists who ventured onto E. 5th St. Sunday. The problem was not lack of space, but the huge piles of snow alongside curbs that threatened to trap the unwary driver. This view of generally deserted E. 5th St. was taken in early afternoon.

City Schools Will Resume On Tuesday

Incinerator Workers Join City's Cleanup In Downtown Area

Moderating temperatures and clear skies allowed the East Liverpool district today to go to work in earnest today on the monumental task of digging out after a weekend snowstorm that built up an accumulation of 12 inches — with drifts ranging up to 3 feet — closing most tri-state schools and creating one of the worst traffic and parking problems in years.

Director Suspends Meter Enforcement

Parking meter regulations were suspended today by Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver. The director emphasized the regulations are expected to be resumed Tuesday.

He also commended city residents for their cooperation and patience during the snow emergency.

Snow-removal work continued today throughout Columbiana, Beaver and Hancock Counties, although most main arteries were passable by Sunday afternoon. But secondary streets and highways still were covered with a heavy accumulation of snow that will require several days' work before traffic gets back to normal.

The Ohio weatherman had one encouraging word for a storm - groggy area — no more snow is in sight at least for today, tonight or Tuesday and temperatures will remain comparatively moderate.

Although the snow built up to a depth of 11 to 12 inches in the immediate East Liverpool area, some of the rural regions to the north and west escaped with a lighter accumulation.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, reported a total fall of 7 inches. It was the heaviest accumulation noted at his weather station since the 9-inch fall of November 28, 1958, he said.

There was a total accumulation of 10 inches in December 1958, but it was the result of storms that continued over a span of several days, Copeland explained.

High winds added to the trouble, drifting snow in exposed locations to depths of 3 feet or more. Bitter cold added to the difficulty of snow removal. Dam 8 at Newell recorded a high of 25 degrees at 1 p. m. Sunday. The overnight low was 12 at 5 this morning. The Millport station had a low of 7 degrees. The unofficial low at Fredericktown last night was 2 below zero.

The heavy snow brought closing of both public and parochial schools in East Liverpool and Wellsville. It also affected all

Mrs. Roosevelt Home After Being Snowbound

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to New York today, none the worse for being marooned several hours aboard a stranded bus on a snow-clogged Pennsylvania highway.

She arrived by train from Pittsburgh at 8:20 a.m. and sped by taxicab to her apartment after telling newsmen she was fine.

She had been caught Sunday night in southwestern Pennsylvania's worst snow storm in 10 years.

The former first lady, weary but unruffled, finished the last leg of an 11-hour, 200-mile trip from Columbus, Ohio, to Pittsburgh in a state police patrol car.

"There was nothing peculiar about the trip at all except I didn't get where I hoped to be," the 75-year-old world traveler said while buying a train ticket to New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt had hoped to be at an Israel bond rally, where she was slated as the principal speaker. The snowstorm, which dumped about 12 inches of snow, changed her plans.

Mystery Sub Still At Large Off Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's frustrated navy today pressed its attack on a mystery submarine with new deep - level U.S. depth charges, but the quarry evaded capture.

As the hunt went into its 17th day, naval officials said their ships were being harassed by a second sub which had slipped through the guarded entrance to Golfo Nuevo in an effort to divert the chase from its apparently damaged comrade.

All Argentina waited for "operation sinking" to produce some results after Navy Secretary Gaston Clement's boast Sunday that the search would reach a climax "in a matter of hours."

The United States said it has no information of any of its subs in the area. The British deny the subs are theirs. And the Soviet embassy Sunday night issued a statement saying no Russian warship is near the Argentine coast.

Plane Delays Landing As Horses Run Wild

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)— Two horses were killed and 28 others stampeded, some onto the runways of the Buffalo International Airport today, when fire swept a riding stable in suburban Cheektowaga.

The landing of a Capitol Airlines flight was delayed briefly as employes of the airport rounded up the strays on the main runways.

The origin of the fire was not determined.

Snow Cleanup Job Continues schools of the Columbiana County and Hancock County systems.

Rural school systems affected included Beaver Local, South Side Schools, Franklin Local, Southern Local and Jefferson Union.

East Liverpool city schools will reopen Tuesday morning, Principal George Hargraves announced late this morning.

With no new snowfall predicted to hamper traffic, most roads traveled by city school buses are expected to be open to traffic, the principal said.

At the County Board of Education office in Lisbon, a spokesman said each school system will have to make its own determination about reopening, depending upon highway conditions and other factors.

St. Aloysius Parochial School said it is waiting until late today to determine if classes will be scheduled Tuesday.

The school question was confounded by the fact that virtually every superintendent in the area is attending a convention in Atlantic City. They include Supt. Ralph W. Betts and Asst. Supt. Paul Blair of East Liverpool, Supt. S. E. Daw of Wellsville and Supt. James L. McBride of the county system.

Wellsville public schools will reopen tomorrow unless further unforeseen weather conditions develop, according to William Menough, high school principal.

Classes at the Immaculate Conception Parochial School in Wellsville also will resume tomorrow if weather permits.

All schools in the Stanton Local district were closed today except for Stratton and Empire elementary buildings, but students will return to classes Tuesday in all probability, officials said.

Heavy drifts which choked rural roads forced closing of Stanton Local High School and the Irondale and Hammondsville elementary schools today.

School officials said classes will be held Tuesday if the rural highways that were plowed Sunday and today do not become closed again tonight by drifting snows.

As most students at Empire and Stratton reside within walking distance of the buildings, classes there were held today as usual.

Hancock County schools, which were closed today, may reopen Tuesday, depending on the speed with which workers of the Pughtown garage of the West Virginia State Road Commission can plow rural highways for buses.

No offciial word could be given on the classroom schedule as Supt. Robert H. Hall and members of the County Board of Education are attending a convention in Atlantic City.

Guy Chamberlain Jr. of New Cumberland, superintendent of buildings and maintenance, was inspecting roofs of buildings and could not be reached.

Trucks from the Pughtown garage began opening secondary roads with snowplows this morning about 10. Workers were on the job most of the night plowing and ashing Routes 30, 2 and 66.

Included in the Hancock County system are schools at Chester, Newell, Pughtown, New Cumberland and Weirton.

Both the South Side Schools near Hookstown and those of the Western Beaver County School District of Industry and Ohio Township were closed today. Both districts may reopen schools tomorrow if roads are cleared.

Only Midland public schools, of the three districts, were open. Midland's Presentation Parochial School was closed today, but will open Tuesday, Sister Ermeline, principal, said.

Beaver Local's some 2,100 students, kept from classes by drifted rural roads, were to return on regular schedule Tuesday, barring more snow or heavy wind which would cause more drifting, officials said.

Southern Local's schools at Salineville, Highlandtown, Wayne and No. 16, are also due to resume tomorrow. A blocked sewer at the high school at Salineville was repaired Saturday, a spokesman reported.

Some 2,000 public and parochial students at East Palestine were slated to return to classes tomorrow after a one-day vacation.

Fairfield-Waterford's some 600 pupils were also to return to school tomorrow. Lisbon schools remained open today.

The weatherman said showers or snow flurries are due again Friday or Saturday. Meanwhile, temperatures will stand about 5 degrees below normal, he said.

Generally fair skies and cold weather prevailed over Ohio this morning. The ground was covered with snow, ranging from one inch at Dayton to 11 inches in a narrow streak along the Ohio River from Chesapeake to Marietta.

The northwest corner of the state had little or no snow.

The low pressure area which brought the snow to Ohio over the weekend had moved far to the northeast this morning and prospects are now favorable for a steady rise in temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday with the temperatures getting high enough to melt some of the snow each afternoon.

Temperatures will continue cold today, ranging from 25 to 33.

Early this morning Zanesville reported the coldest in the state with a reading of 4 above zero. Akron had 8, Cleveland 14, Columbus 17, Cincinnati 18 and Toledo 21.

The snow Sunday forced cancellation of services in many district churches, including: Highlandtown Methodist, West Point Nazarene, Grace United Presbyterian, Calcutta United Presbyterian, Newell Methodist, Newell Presbyterian, Emmanuel Presbyterian, Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church, Chester Methodist, Longs Run United Presbyterian, Glenmoor United Presbyterian, Latter Day Saints, Sheridan Ave. African Methodist Episcopal, First United Presbyterian, First Baptist, Calvary Methodist and First Church of Christ.

Snow removal operations at Wellsville got underway early this morning.

Safety-Service Director William S. Robinson said extra equipment has been rented to augment the operation in the business district and around doctors' offices.

The city rented two high - lift loaders and two trucks to haul away the snow. The city's trucks also are being utilized. The snow is being dumped in vacant lots.

Robinson said all streets are passable. He said the street crews started working Saturday at 6 p. m. and continued through until Sunday at 3 a. m.

Work was resumed Sunday at 10 a. m. and continued until late evening. The men all were called back early this morning.

Robinson said he kept two large trucks moving around town long after it was too bad to spread salt and ashes. The vehicles were used to keep a path broken on all streets and also to keep drifts open.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol near Steubenville said the main highways in its area are starting to clear but still are slippery in spots. Driving on secondary roads still is very hazardous. Very few accidents were reported over the weekend, officers said.

All Columbiana County highways are reported passable this morning by John W. Neill Jr., county highway department superintendent. He said the road crews worked around the clock starting Saturday at 7 p. m. and finishing at 2 a. m. today in an effort to keep traffic moving. The men were back out again today and will use plows and ashes where necessary, Neill said.

At East Palestine, all streets were cleared today, according to street workers who were on the job since the storm began Saturday. Attendance at city churches was low Sunday, but all churches held services.

There were no traffic accidents, and, because the dry nature of the snow which left power lines unburdened, no electric service interruptions, city officials said.

Both the Rochester and the Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police reported main highways open and many secondary roads closed. Both urged motorists to use caution while driving.

Midland police had no traffic mishaps to report. Constable Bernard Zlatovich said roads were "rough" in Ohio Township and some are blocked by snow drifts.

Police Chief E. J. Hineman reported roads open in Industry but traffic moving slowly. He said he was out late Saturday night aiding stuck motorists.

All main roads were open, but slippery in places, according to the State Highway Patrol and Ohio Highway Department officials who said most secondary roads have been plowed and are being cindered again today.

Traffic was moving in orderly fashion on all chief arteries in the area, and road crews — on duty for many hours — continued to clear and ash sideroads.

The 17 crews of the state highway department in Columbiana County went on duty Saturday night and worked as much as 24 hours a spokesman said.

Some of the men were sleeping this morning in preparation for returning to work later today.

The patrol at Lisbon said highways were treacherous yesterday morning, but were being opened for regular traffic by the afternoon. No serious mishaps were reported in the area, but there were several reports of stalled or skidded motorists.

All thoroughfares in Chester were reported clear of snow today except for a few side streets where street employes were at work. The street department with extra help was at work all Sunday.

On Indiana Ave.'s hill between 3rd and 5th Sts., there were many youngsters and adults coasting yesterday and today. Traffic was barricaded from the street.

East Liverpool's snow - removal force virtually was doubled today when Mayor Bert H. Goodballet asked the 24 incinerator department employes to join the 25 street department workers to help speed the monumental task.

Some incinerator department trucks also will aid the work of hauling ashes from the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. to be used on slippery grades, the mayor said.

With the incinerator department employes at work on snow removal, rubbish and garbage collections will be postponed for a couple of days — probably today and Tuesday, the mayor said. However, many secondary streets and alleys would be impassable to the incinerator trucks until the snow emergency is over, the mayor pointed out.

Two incinerator department dump trucks and two more from the street department went to Crucible early today to pick up cinders. They will make a second trip as soon as possible, which means the city will have 8 truckloads of ashes available immediately for use on its streets, Goodballet said.

Incinerator employes not needed to man the trucks will be assigned to snow removal in the business district. One of their first tasks will be to shovel snow off of crosswalks. If a new accumulation of snow develops, it may be necessary to scrape it into piles and load it into trucks with highlifts to be hauled away, as was done in the "Big Snow" of 1950, the mayor said.

Street department workers put in 18 consecutive hours after the snow struck early Saturday night. They were busy from 6 p. m. Saturday until noon Sunday, when they were ordered to go home for some rest. However, some of the men returned to work again Sunday night.

Since it has no snowplows, the city pressed its two road graders into service to help keep main arteries clear. The work concentrated on the main thoroughfares such as St. Clair Ave., Lisbon St., Pennsylvania Ave. and the "Hill Road."

Mayor Goodballet said among the dozens of telephone calls he received were inquiries from citizens: "Why don't you get the snow plows out?"

The answer is that the city does not have snow plows, although the administration hopes to remedy that shortage as soon as possible and borrow snowplows, if possible, from the county in the meantime, the mayor said.

He pointed out that the two graders are the only pieces of equipment which the city has which are equipped with blades suitable for snow removal.

Many of the telephone calls to the mayor requested ashing of secondary streets and alleys. He said the public must be patient, as the condition is general throughout the city. Crews are working as quickly as the available manpower and equipment will permit, the mayor said.

Heavy drifts which choked rural roads forced closing of Stanton Local High School and the Irondale and Hammondsville elementary schools today.

School officials said classes will be held Tuesday if the rural highways that were plowed Sunday and today do not become closed again tonight by drifting snows.

As most students at Empire and Stratton reside within walking distance of the buildings, classes there were held today as usual.

Hancock County schools, which were closed today, may reopen Tuesday, depending on the speed with which workers of the Pughtown garage of the West Virginia State Road Commission can plow rural highways for buses.

No offciial word could be given on the classroom schedule as Supt. Robert H. Hall and members of the County Board of Education are attending a convention in Atlantic City.

Guy Chamberlain Jr. of New Cumberland, superintendent of buildings and maintenance, was inspecting roofs of buildings and could not be reached.

Trucks from the Pughtown garage began opening secondary roads with snowplows this morning about 10. Workers were on the job most of the night plowing and ashing Routes 30, 2 and 66.

Included in the Hancock County system are schools at Chester, Newell, Pughtown, New Cumberland and Weirton.

Both the South Side Schools near Hookstown and those of the Western Beaver County School District of Industry and Ohio Township were closed today. Both districts may reopen schools tomorrow if roads are cleared.

Only Midland public schools, of the three districts, were open. Midland's Presentation Parochial School was closed today, but will open Tuesday, Sister Ermeline, principal, said.

Beaver Local's some 2,100 students, kept from classes by drifted rural roads, were to return on regular schedule Tuesday, barring more snow or heavy wind which would cause more drifting, officials said.

Southern Local's schools at Salineville, Highlandtown, Wayne and No. 16, are also due to resume tomorrow. A blocked sewer at the high school at Salineville was repaired Saturday, a spokesman reported.

Some 2,000 public and parochial students at East Palestine were slated to return to classes tomorrow after a one-day vacation.

Fairfield-Waterford's some 600 pupils were also to return to school tomorrow. Lisbon schools remained open today.

The weatherman said showers or snow flurries are due again Friday or Saturday. Meanwhile, temperatures will stand about 5 degrees below normal, he said.

Generally fair skies and cold weather prevailed over Ohio this morning. The ground was covered with snow, ranging from one inch at Dayton to 11 inches in a narrow streak along the Ohio River from Chesapeake to Marietta.

The northwest corner of the state had little or no snow.

The low pressure area which brought the snow to Ohio over the weekend had moved far to the northeast this morning and prospects are now favorable for a steady rise in temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday with the temperatures getting high enough to melt some of the snow each afternoon.

Temperatures will continue cold today, ranging from 25 to 33.

Early this morning Zanesville reported the coldest in the state with a reading of 4 above zero. Akron had 8, Cleveland 14, Columbus 17, Cincinnati 18 and Toledo 21.

The snow Sunday forced cancellation of services in many district churches, including: Highlandtown Methodist, West Point Nazarene, Grace United Presbyterian, Calcutta United Presbyterian, Newell Methodist, Newell Presbyterian, Emmanuel Presbyterian, Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church, Chester Methodist, Longs Run United Presbyterian, Glenmoor United Presbyterian, Latter Day Saints, Sheridan Ave. African Methodist Episcopal, First United Presbyterian, First Baptist, Calvary Methodist and First Church of Christ.

Snow removal operations at Wellsville got underway early this morning.

Safety-Service Director William S. Robinson said extra equipment has been rented to augment the operation in the business district and around doctors' offices.

The city rented two high-lift loaders and two trucks to haul away the snow. The city's trucks also are being utilized. The snow is being dumped in vacant lots.

Robinson said all streets are passable. He said the street crews started working Saturday at 6 p. m. and continued through until Sunday at 3 a. m.

Work was resumed Sunday at 10 a. m. and continued until late evening. The men all were called back early this morning.

Robinson said he kept two large trucks moving around town long after it was too bad to spread salt and ashes. The vehicles were used to keep a path broken on all streets and also to keep drifts open.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol near Steubenville said the main highways in its area are starting to clear but still are slippery in spots. Driving on secondary roads still is very hazardous. Very few accidents were reported over the weekend, officers said.

All Columbiana County highways were reported passable this morning by John W. Neill Jr., county highway department superintendent. He said the road crews worked around the clock starting Saturday at 7 p. m. and finishing at 2 a. m. today in an effort to keep traffic moving. The men were back out again today and will use plows and ashes where necessary, Neill said.

At East Palestine, all streets were cleared today, according to street workers who were on the job since the storm began Saturday. Attendance at city churches was low Sunday, but all churches held services.

There were no traffic accidents, and, because the dry nature of the snow which left power lines unburdened, no electric service interruptions, city officials said.

Both the Rochester and the Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police reported main highways open and many secondary roads closed. Both urged motorists to use caution while driving.

Midland police had no traffic mishaps to report. Constable Bernard Zlatovich said roads were "rough" in Ohio Township and some are blocked by snow drifts.

Police Chief E. J. Hineman reported roads open in Industry but traffic moving slowly. He said he was out late Saturday night aiding stuck motorists.

All main roads were open, but slippery in places, according to the State Highway Patrol and Ohio Highway Department officials who said most secondary roads have been plowed and are being cindered again today.

Traffic was moving in orderly fashion on all chief arteries in the area, and road crews — on duty for many hours — continued to clear and ash sideroads.

The 17 crews of the state highway department in Columbiana County went on duty Saturday night and worked as much as 24 hours a spokesman said.

Some of the men were sleeping this morning in preparation for returning to work later today.

The patrol at Lisbon said highways were treacherous yesterday morning, but were being opened for regular traffic by the afternoon. No serious mishaps were reported in the area, but there were several reports of stalled or skidded motorists.

All thoroughfares in Chester were reported clear of snow today except for a few side streets where street employes were at work. The street department with extra help was at work all Sunday.

On Indiana Ave.'s hill between 3rd and 5th Sts., there were many youngsters and adults coasting yesterday and today. Traffic was barricaded from the street.

East Liverpool's snow-removal force virtually was doubled today when Mayor Bert H. Goodballet asked the 24 incinerator department employes to join the 25 street department workers to help speed the monumental task.

Some incinerator department trucks also will aid the work of hauling ashes from the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. to be used on slippery grades, the mayor said.

With the incinerator department employes at work on snow removal, rubbish and garbage collections will be postponed for a couple of days — probably today and Tuesday, the mayor said. However, many secondary streets and alleys would be impassable to the incinerator trucks until the snow emergency is over, the mayor pointed out.

Two incinerator department dump trucks and two more from the street department went to Crucible early today to pick up cinders. They will make a second trip as soon as possible, which means the city will have 8 truckloads of ashes available immediately for use on its streets, Goodballet said.

Incinerator employes not needed to man the trucks will be assigned to snow removal in the business district. One of their first tasks will be to shovel snow off of crosswalks. If a new accumulation of snow develops, it may be necessary to scrape it into piles and load it into trucks with highlifts to be hauled away, as was done in the "Big Snow" of 1950, the mayor said.

Street department workers put in 18 consecutive hours after the snow struck early Saturday night. They were busy from 6 p. m. Saturday until noon Sunday, when they were ordered to go home for some rest. However, some of the men returned to work again Sunday night.

Since it has no snowplows, the city pressed its two road graders into service to help keep main arteries clear. The work concentrated on the main thoroughfares such as St. Clair Ave., Lisbon St., Pennsylvania Ave. and the "Hill Road."

Mayor Goodballet said among the dozens of telephone calls he received were inquiries from citizens: "Why don't you get the snow plows out?"

The answer is that the city does not have snow plows, although the administration hopes to remedy that shortage as soon as possible and borrow snowplows, if possible, from the county in the meantime, the mayor said.

He pointed out that the two graders are the only pieces of equipment which the city has which are equipped with blades suitable for snow removal.

Many of the telephone calls to the mayor requested ashing of secondary streets and alleys. He said the public must be patient, as the condition is general throughout the city. Crews are working as quickly as the available manpower and equipment will permit, the mayor said.

Premium Will Be On Know-How

The U.S. Labor Department's new manpower study dealing with the next 10 years contains much eye-popping material. But nothing in it will cause more concern than the findings on employment prospects for the 26 million young citizens who will be entering the labor force before 1970.

These are the "war babies." It is reasonable guess there will be plenty of work for them to do; jobs will be looking for men and women with the know-how to do them. And that is where the eye-popping material in the Labor Department's study will be found.

It predicts an acute shortage of young men and women with know-how.

They will have gone to school longer than their predecessor newcomers in past years—if they stayed in school—but they will need to be fitted into the most complex industrial society ever evolved. It is question whether they will have the skills they need to perform the responsible jobs that will be waiting for them. It is question whether their employers will have the patience and the knowledge of on-the-job training to fit them for wage-earning.

If they do not stay in school, on the other hand, they will join a lost generation, industrially speaking. In the 1960s, unskilled labor will be unneeded. And the problem is even more troublesome than the Labor Department makes it appear with its statistical approach.

The department assumes that students who drop out of school before getting a high school diploma could be persuaded to stay in school and this would make them a net addition to the skilled labor supply of the future. That is too easy an assumption.

Teen-agers tend to drop out of school because they are not doing well in school. For the most part, students who are not doing well in school are incapable of doing well. They lack capacity for learning. Others who have capacity for more learning lack incentive to try. Only rarely can they be appealed to successfully to try what has become distasteful to them.

Here is likely to be the toughest problem of all—the presence of a growing number of unskilled citizens with no job prospects and no possibility of upgrading themselves. Compared with it, all the other employment problems of the '60s, may be minor.

Practice Does Not Make Perfect

It isn't in fashion at the moment to say or think anything cheerful about missiles. But in all probability, Americans will survive long enough to enjoy hindsight on missile evolution, too.

If so, it may be possible to be mellowly philosophical about the evolution of reasonably satisfactory missiles in a fraction of the time consumed in developing other weapons.

The Army, for example, is still looking for an all-purpose rifle and has only recently announced it will field-test its newest model, a replacement for the Garand, which in its time was a replacement for the Springfield. And you can bet that if war occurred the enemy would be using a rifle that would be declared superior by many highly vocal spokesmen for the U.S. Army.

The last word in bombing planes when World War II broke out was the B17. The last word in bombers if World War III occurred would be, as far as the United States is concerned, the B70, the supersonic plane that already has cost the United States a half billion dollars without so much as one prototype to show for it.

For what comfort they may find in it, the rocketeers and missileers should dwell from time to time on the evolution of other mechanical aids for man's insatiable desire to blow his fellowman to Kingdom Come. Their failures aren't unprecedented.

It always has been frustratingly slow. Today's "missile gap" was yesterday's "bomber gap," or "fighter gap." It was the discovery as recently as the Korean War that this country knew little more about the way to build a land tank than a pig knows about Arbor Day, relatively speaking.

The "missile gap" is not new. It is only the modern version of something very old—as old as Hannibal's stealing a march on the enemy with elephants in the Alps and English long bows giving fits to outranged users of short bows.

The perfect weapon is always being dreamed up by someone who hopes to spring it as a surprise and frequently does. Critics of the missileers who are taking their lumps shouldn't forget the words Messerschmitt, Stuka, Stalin, Zero and MIG.

They represented other instances in which the United States found itself at a disadvantage because someone stole a march.

The Hand That Holds The Pencil

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) has picked up the cudgels in the attack on public opinion polls where British politicians dropped them last October, after voters upset the predicted outcome of their parliamentary election.

His first blow was a killer. He ordered five members of his staff to use approximately the same questioning method used by one of the well advertised polls and revealed that front runners in the 1960 presidential sweepstakes are Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and John D. Eisenhower.

It is not surprising, on the face of it, that a cross-section of people polled in the District of Columbia did not know Franklin D. Roosevelt's namesake and Dwight D. Eisenhower's son aren't in the presidential race. Dairy cows have been elected beauty queens on college campuses. There scarcely is a place in the country that cannot recall with shame when it was suckered into electing someone it never intended to elect over the confusion of names.

What has become more surprising year by year was the attention paid to public opinion polls on politics. At best, they still could be as unreliable as some of the fantastic outcomes of actual election. At worst, they could give no more insight into the outcome of a wholly unrpedictable event than the ancient soothsayers of Rome could give by examining the entrails of chickens.

Yet, because the polls fit smoothly into the process of being popular opinion hither and yon they became as popular as blue shirts for television purposes. A politician scarcely brushes his teeth any more without hiring a pollster to find out first what the folks out there in rolly-polly land think of dental hygiene — whether they are for it, against it, or so-so.

There's no way to stop it. There's no will to stop it, despite the red-necked anger of people who are played for suckers if the polls prove to have been misleading. That was the reason for Britain's sour reaction last October. The polls had led innocent voters to believe the Conservatives were about to be shoved aside by the Labor party. But when the votes were counted, the Conservatives had won in a walk.

That will be the ultimate solution for the political problems posed by polls that threaten to influence the outcome of elections by predicting ahead of time what the outcome is going to be. There finally will have been so many demonstrations of failure that no one will take polls seriously any more.

What happened to the people who bet their bottom dollars on the reliability of the Literary Digest poll? What polls are they betting on now?

Pinpointing Inflation

By Frank Tripp

To spread the truth about inflation, its causes and remedies will be the function of a new organization, the Council for Economic Growth and Security; a program of publicity and education.

It will have to be frank and brutal campaign to go deeper than mediums of communication have repeatedly, some continuously, treated the dangers that President Eisenhower calls a day when Americans could be "going to the grocery with a basket full of currency to bring home a pocketbook full of groceries." We are on our way.

That is Ike's fear of our inflationry trend. The new civilian movement has his blessing. If it does its job the executive himself, his 1961 successor and all of Congress will be among its chief targets. Because government extravagance, giveaways and waste, mounting taxes are a major cause of spiralling prices — for living costs and prices only bring inflation to the common man's door.

THE BASIC job demands a brand of guts that no agency thus far has exhibited. It must take on bare handed the government, labor leaders, unions, political bosses, office seekers, do-gooders, greedy industrialists, and a new brand of citizenry that knows no personal responsibility for its own sustenance and security. Qute an order!

Yet that's the job, for there lie all of the sources of inflation. Education and publicity can go only so far; making either effective demands positive action born of authority, fearless authority, which in democracy is or should be, government elected by the people.

So, we get right back to the ballot, the vote of a majority which has been "bought" and is controlled by wilful politicians, greedy for power and office, through a system of paternalism and giveaways, paid for by the people themselves through hidden taxes and staggering deficits.

It will be no mean job to make a gimme nation see this; a people lulled into apathy for three decades, an electorate that never knew life different, a whole generation of voters who are as deceived as are the peoples they spend billions to "Save and make free."

The pity and disgrace is that leaders who know better let them get that way to keep their hold on government. Until today the voers hemselves are a part of the inflationary system; seeking to overcome inflationary living costs through spiralling wages and controlled production which create more inflation and still higher prices.

IT WILL BE a handsome trick to switch their loyalty to their own advantage so long as government remains their banker and their security to the grave.

Too late they will come to the plight of 15 million oldsters who are being inflated out of their pittance of savings, social security and pensions and face the ignominy of becoming public charges. Every day their fixed incomes buy less. Millions face a crisis.

They cannot profit by the spiralling wages of those who force more inflation upon them. They are not organized into a bloc whose votes are sought.

The net of it is that their juniors must be brought to realization that every day brings them nearer to a fate they are creating and cannot escape—old age, and dependance on a banker that they are milking dry.

Hoffa Said To Back Humphrey

By Victor Riesel

In a recent private conversation Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey told friends that the only differences between himself and Sen. John Kennedy are over conservation and natural resources — which is a fascinating way to describe Jim Hoffa.

Victor Riesel

Fact is that the man from Minnesota has accepted active Teamsters' support in his drive for the presidency of the United States.

The man from Massachusetts, however, has taken as a badge of merit the fact that Hoffa went into Wisconsin recently and called Kennedy "the most dangerous man in the world."

Reports of conferences between Humphrey's and Hoffa's people are all through the highest labor circles. These reports have hit the Minnesota senator like heavy winds among the autumn leaves. His national labor support has fallen away.

Humphrey has lost more union chiefs recently than there are collegians in a row of phone booths on stuffing days. It will be these national union leaders who will be speaking for labor at the Democratic nominating convention.

Humphrey knows that politics is the art of the possible and that it would be impossible to win the Democratic nomination if he loses the April 5 Wisconsin primary to Jack Kennedy.

MONTHS AGO Humphrey's Badger State lieutenants sought out the Teamsters High command there. It was decided to put Teamsters leaders Emmett Terry on the "Humphrey for President Committee" executive board.

Terry, operating out of Green Bay, is a Hoffa man. He represented Local 75, Drivers, Warehousemen and Dairy Employes, at the great one-man show known as the 1957 Miami Beach Teamsters convention. Brother Terry voted for Brother Hoffa.

Terry is a power in the Wisconsin state Teamsters Council and helps to arrange meetings for provisional president Hoffa such as the one near Lake Delton, Wis., on Jan. 24.

There were several hundred truck drivers there unhappy about having to take their orders from the Minnesota Teamsters. They wanted an independent local all their own. Hoffa rented a small plane and landed on the snow covered little runway at the Lake Delton airport.

Braving the northern frosts for the boss, the second international vice president, John T. O'Brien and, ninth vice president, Gordon R. Conklin of St. Paul were waiting.

BROTHER O'BRIEN came in from Chicago to be at the airstrip. And why not. When Hoffa was asked some time ago why he permitted O'Brien to share in more than one million dollars in unheard of commissions on dues paid to Chicago Local 710, Hoffa said, "Oh, that's all right, the members approved it."

It was at the Lake Delton meeting that Hoffa said Kennedy was the world's most dangerous man.

During that stay, Hoffa's people, including Emmet Terry, sponsor of Hubert Humphrey, learned that he would be back in Wisconsin "four or five more times" to campaign against Kennedy.

There isn't the slightest insinuation in these reports that Humphrey has anything but distaste for the type of Teamsters practices exposed by the McClellan committee. But national labor leaders point out that he hasn't attempted to disassociate himself from the regular attacks on Kennedy appearing in the Wisconsin Teamsters publication.

MOST IRRITATED of all with Humphrey is pile-driving AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Not only is Meany under constant attack from the Central States Conference of Teamsters, now backing Humphrey but he faces a personal duel with Hoffa in the next few days.

Hoffa has just asked Federal Judge Dickinson Letts for "leave" to cross-examine Meany in out-of-court proceedings.

This would be in the form of taking a deposition (affidavit) for presentation in court when Hoffa goes on trial next week on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer of the Teamsters.

Obviously Hoffa is using this as the psychological warfare end of his battle with the national AFL-CIO leadership.

This leadership sees no reason to think kindly of Humphrey, therefore, and has been boycotting some of his campaign receptions around the country.

It's nothing personal. They just think that Hoffa's lieutenants are more than a matter of political expediency—more than a matter of taste.

What To Do About It?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON— The Soviets shocked this country with their Sputniks and the moon shot. But they sent a first-class chill down the American spine with Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's trip to Cuba.

The United States doesn't like it. But what is it going to do about it? Not much right away, it seems. What the Soviets proved was that two can play at the one-sided game this country has been playing a long time.

We have been rooting around in their back yard for years. Now they are rooting around in ours.

Once they got nasty after the war we had no hesitancy about lining up their neighbors on our side.

We got Turkey, Iran and Pakistan into military alliances, gave them arms and aid. Those who just wanted aid, like India and Afghanistan, got aid.

We spread our influence and help into Southeast Asia and North Africa. As for Latin America—we spread help there, too, although not as freely as elsewhere. That part of the world was under our wing. The Soviets were far away and it seemed safe.

We had the Monroe Doctrine for Latin America: no foreign intervention there. We were thinking of military intervention, of course. There were local Communists in Latin America but they did not control a government.

With everything so tidy close to home, we even extended a kind of Monroe Doctrine to Western Europe, called the Truman Doctrine. It told the Soviets American interests were worldwide and not to push our friends around.

All this was intended to put a ring around the Soviet Union to keep it in check. It worked for a while but not long. All the Soviets had to do was to fly over the ring or sail around it.

Egypt, for instance. The Egyptians got aid from us but when they wanted weapons, too, and help in building their Aswan Dam, we refused the arms and backed away from the dam.

The Soviets moved right in. Egypt got the arms and now the Soviets are building the dam. We gave Afghanistan aid, the Soviets gave more. We gave help to India. So did the Soviet Union.

Still, Latin America seemed a long way away from the Soviet Union. Then Mikoyan went to Mexico to get acquainted and followed up with last week's trip to Cuba where Fidel Castro's government has been snarling at the United States.

By last weekend he had promised to buy five million tons of Cuban sugar over the next five years, arranged for a Soviet loan to Cuba, and even offered Castro war planes if he wants them.

This country has been concerned that Cuban Communists, with or without Castro's leadership, would take over the government.

Now Mikoyan has gone a long way in a week's time to set a solid foundation for Soviet and Communist influence there.

At the least, Castro will probably try to play off the Soviet Union against this country. But Mikoyan's trip to Cuba is just a preliminary to other Soviet efforts to create friends and dependents in Latin America.

All this puts the United States in a kind of self-conscious fix, since the United States is anxious to avoid any action which would revive the memory of Uncle Sam hovering over Latin America with a big stick.

The Defense Debate

By Elton C. Fay

Here's A Wrapup On The Heated Controversy

WASHINGTON With the debate on the size and nature of the military program for next year barely bgeun, demands are being made to add up to three billion dollars to the defense budget proposed by President Eisenhower.

The military appropriation bill which Congress eventually passes could be influenced strongly by international trends in the interim.

Among other matters, the success or failure of the scheduled summit meeting of Soviet and Western chiefs of state in April and any developments in disarmament efforts could have their impact on what Congress, or indeed, the administration, finally does about the amount of money and the composition of defense forces.

Certainly, new adventures in limited aggression by the Communit camp anywhere in the world could influence the program.

But at the moment, President Eisenhower is adhering firmly to his proposal that military spending be about 41 billion dollars, approximately the figure for the present year.

But influential Democrats in Congress say that more should be spent for defense — for missiles and for other arms.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) wants Congress to add three billion dollars to the administration's military program. He says he is confident the Senate will boost it by a billion, and "I think it should be more."

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga) says that like the President he favors a balanced budget but "this must not be achieved at the expense of our military muscle."

Missiles dominate the debate today. But the argument branches out, also, to embrace other weapons systems, some conventional, some new.

It embraces, too, the methods of assessing the probability of war—the technique of intelligence evaluation.

The broad topics of debate include these:

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) insists that "the facts are that a substantial missiles gap does exist and the administration apparently is going to permit this gap to increase."

Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. concedes the Soviet Union may have more missiles than the United States during the next three years, but insists that the over-all deterrent strength of the United States—in long-range bombers, intermediate range missiles, ship-based planes, Polaris submarines—is greater.

The differences are not exclusively those between the administration and Democratic critics in Congress. The military leaders themselves do not see eye to eye.

Gen. Thomas Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command, said recently that, with no advance missile warning system available, the Soviet Union could fire only 300 ballistic missiles and virtually could wipe out the entire strike force of the United States within 30 minutes. He said only half the missiles would need to be of intercontinental range. He wanted more money to keep some of his strategic bombers in the air at all times.

Under questioning of a House subcommittee, Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, said Power did not necessarily speak the views of the Defense Department. And Eisenhower, in a news conference, commented about parochial views by officers he did not mention by name.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, told a committee he believes the Navy should be permitted to start building six more Polaris submarines now, at a cost of about 975 million dollars, in addition to the three which would be provided under the administration's military budget. But Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke out against such a speed-up in the Polaris program.

The Army is unhappy about money provided by the budget for modernization, for preparing for limited war and for development of its Nike-Zeus antimissle missile. It also questions the ability of the Air Force to provide adequate airlift for Army troops to meet limited or general aggression.

The Army would like to spend five billion dollars per year for three years to re-equip itself with new arms and other materiel. It is getting considerably less.

There is debate also about the Navy's conventional weapons system situation. The Navy wants to start building another new carrier. But its original hope for making this carrier atomic powered, like one now being built, was quashed by the administration when the estimated cost rose substantially above 400 million dollars.

GOP Farm Strategy

By Jay G. Hayden

President Eisenhower's shift to the heavily Democratic Congress of prime responsibility for agricultural policy was prompted mainly by the demand of farm belt Republicans for at least an even start in the battle for votes next November.

While Vice President Nixon in no way has been identified as contributing to the presidential pronouncement, one of its effects plainly is to free the hands of the Republican presidential nominee, as well as the Congress, in framing farm policy.

Originally scheduled for presentation to Congress last Thursday, Mr. Eisenhower's message was held up and, as reported, considerably toned down following a protest by Western Republican senators tipped off as to its contents.

AMONG MEMBERS of the latter group, up for re-election, were Senators Allott of Colorado, Dworshak of Idaho, Mundt of South Dakota and Schoeppel of Kansas. Sen. Young of North Dakota, in whose office the meeting occurred, has a special interest because his state will hold an election next June 28 to pick a successor to Sen. Langer, deceased.

That seat is filled temporarily by a Republican, C. Norman Brumsdale, but state law requires an election in June to fill out the rest of Langer's term, ending in 1965.

Sen. Young argued that the result of this North Dakota vote certainly will hinge on the congressional farm debate.

Republican eligibles for the place, including Gov. John E. Davis, are said to be waiting on events in Washington to decide whether they will enter.

The Democratic nominee is expected to be Rep. Quentin Burdick, who turned Democrat to run successfully for the House seat formerly held by his Republican father, Usher Burdick.

Young Burdick focused his attack wholly against Secretary of Agriculture Benson, but so did Don Short, a Republican freshman from the other North Dakota congressional district. Both ran at large.

Republican senators are seeking re-election this year in Nebraska and Iowa as well as in the states mentioned above.

Democratic senators up for re-election in states with large agricultural constituencies include Humphrey of Minnesota, Douglas of Illinois, McNamara of Michigan, O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Neuberger of Oregon.

THE GREAT BULK of Democratic gains in the congressional election of 1958 were in agricultural regions, with the result that Republicans have little left to lose and much to gain in that sector.

Among 35 Republicans from Middle Western farm districts who supported Secretary Benson 10 were defeated by Democrats. Two others retired and were replaced by Democrats, meaning a net loss by Benson of 34 per cent of those who backed him.

Of Republicans from the same region who opposed Benson, five were defeated by Democrats, two retired and were replaced by Democrats, three retired or died and were replaced by Republicans.

Nowhere in that region did the Republicans score a clear-cut congressional gain.

Based on the theory that they have hit rock-bottom in the Middle Western agricultural region, Republicans are greatly hopeful of substantial gain in that area this year.

The genius of President Eisenhower's message may be that it throws open the floodgates. Each member, Republican or Democart, now can go to bat for the farm solution that he sees best fitted to his own area.

For years past, for example, there have been developing strong differences between the wheat, corn and hog farmers of the Middle West and the cotton, tobacco, rice and peanut growers of the South. Each of those two groups is sure to come up with its own program.

Just for a starter, 16 house Democrats, ranging from Texas to South Dakota, introduced a new "Brannan Plan" farm bill. This would hold prices down for consumers but authorize direct "compensatory payments" of up to $5,000 a year to each individual farmer.

There will be a bushel of other similar proposals with a very large chance that the Congress will end up with no farm legislation at all.

Premium Will Be On Know-How

The U.S. Labor Department's new manpower study dealing with the next 10 years contains much eye-popping material. But nothing in it will cause more concern than the findings on employment prospects for the 26 million young citizens who will be entering the labor force before 1970.

These are the "war babies." It is reasonable guess there will be plenty of work for them to do; jobs will be looking for men and women with the know-how to do them. And that is where the eye-popping material in the Labor Department's study will be found.

It predicts an acute shortage of young men and women with know-how.

They will have gone to school longer than their predecessor newcomers in past years—if they stayed in school—but they will need to be fitted into the most complex industrial society ever evolved. It is question whether they will have the skills they need to perform the responsible jobs that will be waiting for them. It is question whether their employers will have the patience and the knowledge of on-the-job training to fit them for wage-earning.

If they do not stay in school, on the other hand, they will join a lost generation, industrially speaking. In the 1960s, unskilled labor will be unneeded. And the problem is even more troublesome than the Labor Department makes it appear with its statistical approach.

The department assumes that students who drop out of school before getting a high school diploma could be persuaded to stay in school and this would make them a net addition to the skilled labor supply of the future. That is too easy an assumption.

Teen-agers tend to drop out of school because they are not doing well in school. For the most part, students who are not doing well in school are incapable of doing well. They lack capacity for learning. Others who have capacity for more learning lack incentive to try. Only rarely can they be appealed to successfully to try what has become distasteful to them.

Here is likely to be the toughest problem of all—the presence of a growing number of unskilled citizens with no job prospects and no possibility of upgrading themselves. Compared with it, all the other employment problems of the '60s, may be minor.

Practice Does Not Make Perfect

It isn't in fashion at the moment to say or think anything cheerful about missiles. But in all probability, Americans will survive long enough to enjoy hindsight on missile evolution, too.

If so, it may be possible to be mellowly philosophical about the evolution of reasonably satisfactory missiles in a fraction of the time consumed in developing other weapons.

The Army, for example, is still looking for an all-purpose rifle and has only recently announced it will field-test its newest model, a replacement for the Garand, which in its time was a replacement for the Springfield. And you can bet that if war occurred the enemy would be using a rifle that would be declared superior by many highly vocal spokesmen for the U.S. Army.

The last word in bombing planes when World War II broke out was the B17. The last word in bombers if World War III occurred would be, as far as the United States is concerned, the B70, the supersonic plane that already has cost the United States a half billion dollars without so much as one prototype to show for it.

For what comfort they may find in it, the rocketeers and missileers should dwell from time to time on the evolution of other mechanical aids for men's insatiable desire to blow his fellowman to Kingdom Come. Their failures aren't unprecedented.

It always has been frustratingly slow. Today's "missile gap" was yesterday's "bomber gap," or "fighter gap." It was the discovery as recently as the Korean War that this country knew little more about the way to build a land tank than a pig knows about Arbor Day, relatively speaking.

The "missile gap" is not new. It is only the modern version of something very old—as old as Hannibal's stealing a march on the enemy with elephants in the Alps and English long bows giving fits to outranged users of short bows.

The perfect weapon is always being dreamed up by someone who hopes to spring it as a surprise and frequently does. Critics of the missileers who are taking their lumps shouldn't forget the words Messerschmitt, Stuka, Stalin, Zero and MIG.

They represented other instances in which the United States found itself at a disadvantage because someone stole a march.

The Hand That Holds The Pencil

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) has picked up the cudgels in the attack on public opinion polls where British politicians dropped them last October, after voters upset the predicted outcome of their parliamentary election.

His first blow was a killer. He ordered five members of his staff to use approximately the same questioning method used by one of the well advertised polls and revealed that front runners in the 1960 presidential sweepstakes are Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and John D. Eisenhower.

It is not surprising, on the face of it, that a cross-section of people polled in the District of Columbia did not know Franklin D. Roosevelt's namesake and Dwight D. Eisenhower's son aren't in the presidential race. Dairy cows have been elected beauty queens on college campuses. There scarcely is a place in the country that cannot recall with shame when it was suckered into electing someone it never intended to elect over the confusion of names.

What has become more surprising year by year was the attention paid to public opinion polls on politics. At best, they still could be as unreliable as some of the fantastic outcomes of actual election. At worst, they could give no more insight into the outcome of a wholly unrpedictable event than the ancient soothsayers of Rome could give by examining the entrails of chickens.

Yet, because the polls fit smoothly into the process of being popular opinion hither and yon they became as popular as blue shirts for television purposes. A politician scarcely brushes his teeth any more without hiring a pollster to find out first what the folks out there in rolly-polly land think of dental hygiene — whether they are for it, against it, or so-so.

There's no way to stop it. There's no will to stop it, despite the red-necked anger of people who are played for suckers if the polls prove to have been misleading. That was the reason for Britain's sour reaction last October. The polls had led innocent voters to believe the Conservatives were about to be shoved aside by the Labor party. But when the votes were counted, the Conservatives had won in a walk.

That will be the ultimate solution for the political problems posed by polls that threaten to influence the outcome of elections by predicting ahead of time what the outcome is going to be. There finally will have been so many demonstrations of failure that no one will take polls seriously any more.

What happened to the people who bet their bottom dollars on the reliability of the Literary Digest poll? What polls are they betting on now?

Pinpointing Inflation

By Frank Tripp

To spread the truth about inflation, its causes and remedies will be the function of a new organization, the Council for Economic Growth and Security; a program of publicity and education.

It will have to be frank and brutal campaign to go deeper than mediums of communication have repeatedly, some continuously, treated the dangers that President Eisenhower calls a day when Americans could be "going to the grocery with a basket full of currency to bring home a pocketbook full of groceries." We are on our way.

That is Ike's fear of our inflationry trend. The new civilian movement has his blessing. If it does its job the executive himself, his 1961 successor and all of Congress will be among its chief targets. Because government extravagance, giveaways and waste, mounting taxes are a major cause of spiralling prices — for living costs and prices only bring inflation to the common man's door.

THE BASIC job demands a brand of guts that no agency thus far has exhibited. It must take on bare handed the government, labor leaders, unions, political bosses, office seekers, do-gooders, greedy industrialists, and a new brand of citizenry that knows no personal responsibility for its own sustenance and security. Qute an order!

Yet that's the job, for there lie all of the sources of inflation. Education and publicity can go only so far; making either effective demands positive action born of authority, fearless authority, which in democracy is or should be, government elected by the people.

So, we get right back to the ballot, the vote of a majority which has been "bought" and is controlled by wilful politicians, greedy for power and office, through a system of paternalism and giveaways, paid for by the people themselves through hidden taxes and staggering deficits.

It will be no mean job to make a gimme nation see this; a people lulled into apathy for three decades, an electorate that never knew life different, a whole generation of voters who are as deceived as are the peoples they spend billions to "Save and make free."

The pity and disgrace is that leaders who know better let them get that way to keep their hold on government. Until today the voers hemselves are a part of the inflationary system; seeking to overcome inflationary living costs through spiralling wages and controlled production which create more inflation and still higher prices.

IT WILL BE a handsome trick to switch their loyalty to their own advantage so long as government remains their banker and their security to the grave.

Too late they will come to the plight of 15 million oldsters who are being inflated out of their pittance of savings, social security and pensions and face the ignominy of becoming public charges. Every day their fixed incomes buy less. Millions face a crisis.

They cannot profit by the spiralling wages of those who force more inflation upon them. They are not organized into a bloc whose votes are sought.

The net of it is that their juniors must be brought to realization that every day brings them nearer to a fate they are creating and cannot escape—old age, and dependance on a banker that they are milking dry.

Hoffa Said To Back Humphrey

By Victo r Riesel

In a recent private conversation Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey told friends that the only differences between himself and Sen. John Kennedy are over conservation and natural resources — which is a fascinating way to describe Jim Hoffa.

Victor Riesel

Fact is that the man from Minnesota has accepted active Teamsters' support in his drive for the presidency of the United States.

The man from Massachusetts, however, has taken as a badge of merit the fact that Hoffa went into Wisconsin recently and called Kennedy "the most dangerous man in the world."

Reports of conferences between Humphrey's and Hoffa's people are all through the highest labor circles. These reports have hit the Minnesota senator like heavy winds among the autumn leaves. His national labor support has fallen away.

Humphrey has lost more union chiefs recently than there are collegians in a row of phone booths on stuffing days. It will be these national union leaders who will be speaking for labor at the Democratic nominating convention.

Humphrey knows that politics is the art of the possible and that it would be impossible to win the Democratic nomination if he loses the April 5 Wisconsin primary to Jack Kennedy.

MONTHS AGO Humphrey's Badger State lieutenants sought out the Teamsters High command there. It was decided to put Teamsters leaders Emmett Terry on the "Humphrey for President Committee" executive board.

Terry, operating out of Green Bay, is a Hoffa man. He represented Local 75, Drivers, Warehousemen and Dairy Employes, at the great one-man show known as the 1957 Miami Beach Teamsters convention. Brother Terry voted for Brother Hoffa.

Terry is a power in the Wisconsin state Teamsters Council and helps to arrange meetings for provisional president Hoffa such as the one near Lake Delton, Wis., on Jan. 24.

There were several hundred truck drivers there unhappy about having to take their orders from the Minnesota Teamsters. They wanted an independent local all their own. Hoffa rented a small plane and landed on the snow covered little runway at the Lake Delton airport.

Braving the northern frosts for the boss, the second international vice president, John T. O'Brien and, ninth vice president, Gordon R. Conklin of St. Paul were waiting.

BROTHER O'BRIEN came in from Chicago to be at the airstrip. And why not. When Hoffa was asked some time ago why he permitted O'Brien to share in more than one million dollars in unheard of commissions on dues paid to Chicago Local 710, Hoffa said, "Oh, that's all right, the members approved it."

It was at the Lake Delton meeting that Hoffa said Kennedy was the world's most dangerous man.

During that stay, Hoffa's people, including Emmet Terry, sponsor of Hubert Humphrey, learned that he would be back in Wisconsin "four or five more times" to campaign against Kennedy.

There isn't the slightest insinuation in these reports that Humphrey has anything but distaste for the type of Teamsters practices exposed by the McClellan committee. But national labor leaders point out that he hasn't attempted to disassociate himself from the regular attacks on Kennedy appearing in the Wisconsin Teamsters publication.

MOST IRRITATED of all with Humphrey is pile-driving AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Not only is Meany under constant attack from the Central States Conference of Teamsters, now backing Humphrey but he faces a personal duel with Hoffa in the next few days.

Hoffa has just asked Federal Judge Dickinson Letts for "leave" to cross-examine Meany in out-of-court proceedings.

This would be in the form of taking a deposition (affidavit) for presentation in court when Hoffa goes on trial next week on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer of the Teamsters.

Obviously Hoffa is using this as the psychological warfare end of his battle with the national AFL-CIO leadership.

This leadership sees no reason to think kindly of Humphrey, therefore, and has been boycotting some of his campaign receptions around the country.

It's nothing personal. They just think that Hoffa's lieutenants are more than a matter of political expediency—more than a matter of taste.

What To Do About It?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON—The Soviets shocked this country with their Sputniks and the moon shot. But they sent a first-class chill down the American spine with Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's trip to Cuba.

The United States doesn't like it. But what is it going to do about it? Not much right away, it seems. What the Soviets proved was that two can play at the one-sided game this country has been playing a long time.

We have been rooting around in their back yard for years. Now they are rooting around in ours.

Once they got nasty after the war we had no hesitancy about lining up their neighbors on our side.

We got Turkey, Iran and Pakistan into military alliances, gave them arms and aid. Those who just wanted aid, like India and Afghanistan, got aid.

We spread our influence and help into Southeast Asia and North Africa. As for Latin America—we spread help there, too, although not as freely as elsewhere. That part of the world was under our wing. The Soviets were far away and it seemed safe.

We had the Monroe Doctrine for Latin America: no foreign intervention there. We were thinking of military intervention, of course. There were local Communists in Latin America but they did not control a government.

With everything so tidy close to home, we even extended a kind of Monroe Doctrine to Western Europe, called the Truman Doctrine. It told the Soviets American interests were worldwide and not to push our friends around.

All this was intended to put a ring around the Soviet Union to keep it in check. It worked for a while but not long. All the Soviets had to do was to fly over the ring or sail around it.

Egypt, for instance. The Egyptians got aid from us but when they wanted weapons, too, and help in building their Aswan Dam, we refused the arms and backed away from the dam.

The Soviets moved right in. Egypt got the arms and now the Soviets are building the dam. We gave Afghanistan aid, the Soviets gave more. We gave help to India. So did the Soviet Union.

Still, Latin America seemed a long way away from the Soviet Union. Then Mikoyan went to Mexico to get acquainted and followed up with last week's trip to Cuba where Fidel Castro's government has been snarling at the United States.

By last weekend he had promised to buy five million tons of Cuban sugar over the next five years, arranged for a Soviet loan to Cuba, and even offered Castro war planes if he wants them.

This country has been concerned that Cuban Communists, with or without Castro's leadership, would take over the government.

Now Mikoyan has gone a long way in a week's time to set a solid foundation for Soviet and Communist influence there.

At the least, Castro will probably try to play off the Soviet Union against this country. But Mikoyan's trip to Cuba is just a preliminary to other Soviet efforts to create friends and dependents in Latin America.

All this puts the United States in a kind of self-conscious fix, since the United States is anxious to avoid any action which would revive the memory of Uncle Sam hovering over Latin America with a big stick.

The Defense Debate

By Elton C. Fay

Here's A Wrapup On The Heated Controversy

WASHINGTON—With the debate on the size and nature of the military program for next year barely bgeun, demands are being made to add up to three billion dollars to the defense budget proposed by President Eisenhower.

The military appropriation bill which Congress eventually passes could be influenced strongly by international trends in the interim.

Among other matters, the success or failure of the scheduled summit meeting of Soviet and Western chiefs of state in April and any developments in disarmament efforts could have their impact on what Congress, or indeed, the administration, finally does about the amount of money and the composition of defense forces.

Certainly, new adventures in limited aggression by the Communit camp anywhere in the world could influence the program.

But at the moment, President Eisenhower is adhering firmly to his proposal that military spending be about 41 billion dollars, approximately the figure for the present year.

But influential Democrats in Congress say that more should be spent for defense — for missiles and for other arms.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) wants Congress to add three billion dollars to the administration's military program. He says he is confident the Senate will boost it by a billion, and "I think it should be more."

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga) says that like the President he favors a balanced budget but "this must not be achieved at the expense of our military muscle."

Missiles dominate the debate today. But the argument branches out, also, to embrace other weapons systems, some conventional, some new.

It embraces, too, the methods of assessing the probability of war—the technique of intelligence evaluation.

The broad topics of debate include these:

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) insists that "the facts are that a substantial missiles gap does exist and the administration apparently is going to permit this gap to increase."

Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. concedes the Soviet Union may have more missiles than the United States during the next three years, but insists that the over-all deterrent strength of the United States—in long-range bombers, intermediate range missiles, ship-based planes, Polaris submarines—is greater.

The differences are not exclusively those between the administration and Democratic critics in Congress. The military leaders themselves do not see eye to eye.

Gen. Thomas Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command, said recently that, with no advance missile warning system available, the Soviet Union could fire only 300 ballistic missiles and virtually could wipe out the entire strike force of the United States within 30 minutes. He said only half the missiles would need to be of intercontinental range. He wanted more money to keep some of his strategic bombers in the air at all times.

Under questioning of a House subcommittee, Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, said Power did not necessarily speak the views of the Defense Department. And Eisenhower, in a news conference, commented about parochial views by officers he did not mention by name.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, told a committee he believes the Navy should be permitted to start building six more Polaris submarines now, at a cost of about 975 million dollars, in addition to the three which would be provided under the administration's military budget. But Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke out against such a speed-up in the Polaris program.

The Army is unhappy about money provided by the budget for modernization, for preparing for limited war and for development of its Nike-Zeus antimissle missile. It also questions the ability of the Air Force to provide adequate airlift for Army troops to meet limited or general aggression.

The Army would like to spend five billion dollars per year for three years to re-equip itself with new arms and other materiel. It is getting considerably less.

There is debate also about the Navy's conventional weapons system situation. The Navy wants to start building another new carrier. But its original hope for making this carrier atomic powered, like one now being built, was quashed by the administration when the estimated cost rose substantially above 400 million dollars.

Women Boost Fire Hall Fund

A $500 check for the mortgage on the fire hall was presented to the Industry volunteer fire department by members of the auxiliary Thursday night at the regular meeting of the fire department.

Mrs. Otto Amthor, auxiliary president, and Mrs. Ben Montgomery, treasurer, made the presentation.

Noah Luster, president, conducted business. Allan Craft was appointed to investigate the possibilities of radio hookup for fire calls.

Luster announced the appointment of a new by-law committee to examine the by-laws and suggest changes. It includes Charles Karolewski, Earl Hineman, Anthony Kress, Otto Amthor and Ben Montgomery.

Eugene McKlveen was accepted as a new member. Walter Zischkau was appointed to handle publicity.

A public dance will be sponsored by the department and auxiliary in the fire hall Saturday night.

The next meeting will be March 10.

Members of the Industry Borough Women's Club will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Ohio View school. Mrs. Fred Schmidt will be hostess chairman.

Mrs. Joseph Benek will direct a skit following the meeting.

Pope Pius told Broadway stage comedians Olsen and Johnson that "Laughter has no religion. There should be more of it in the world."

Midland Boy Scouts Get Charter

The charter was presented by Larry Holt, Ft. McIntosh District organization and extension member, to Al Monaco. Local 1212 of the United Steelworkers Union is sponsor of the troop.

About 24 boys and their parents attended the Blue and Gold Diner in the Steelworkers Hall. The Rev. George H. Bohlender, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, spoke on "The History of Scouting and the Meaning of the Scout Laws." He also gave the invocation.

Huha, scoutmaster, was toastmaster and introduced special guests including Holt, Bob Chorba, district chairman, Leroy Turner, district vice chairman, Bill Marcum, neighborhood commissioner, John Fantone, treasurer of old Troop 415, and Rev. Bohlender.

Troop members decorated the dining room. Joe Kadilak was chairman of the food committee.

Bethia Southwick Chapter Observes 'History Month'

In observance of American History Month, Bethia Southwick Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, honored early patriots at a meeting Friday night in the home of Mrs. Isabel Dickey of Broadway, Wellsville.

Mrs. Isabel Hart reviewed portions of the book, "Jefferson, the Giant". Mrs. Clarence Green reported on the life of James Monroe, a neighbor of Jefferson, and made comments on the Monroe Doctrine as it affects our way of life today. Mrs. D. C. Moore read a prepared paper, "Cancer in Colonial Days", and excerpts and anecdotes about Lincoln were used as roll call.

Mrs. Carolyn Vogel, regent, led the DAR ritual. Mrs. Dwight MacLean, chaplain, read "A Tribute to Lincoln" (Markham), used Psalm 23:12 as the scripture and gave a prayer. The flag salute was led by Mrs. Dickey and a verse of "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung by the group, accompanied by Mrs. Hart.

Donations were given to the fund for binding of geneological records at the library in Washington and to the national defense fund. Mrs. Vogel, Mrs. Herman Feustel, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Hart joined the "Friends of the Museum," a project to finance the DAR museum at the headquarters in Washington.

Delegates chosen for the state conference March 14-16 at Cleveland were Mrs. Vogel, Mrs. Green and Mrs. D. T. O'Hara. Delegates to the Continental Congress April 18-22 at Washington will be Mrs. Robert Faulk and Mrs. O'Hara. Members were urged to write their senators to keep the Connolly amendment as a safeguard against a World Court.

Mrs. Dickey displayed several family heirlooms and commented upon them. Miss Marion Martin of New Wilmington, Pa., was a guest. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. George Fraser in serving lunch. The patriotic theme was used.

The next meeting will be March 11 at the home of Mrs. George Guthrie in Chester, with Maj. J. Bennett Taylor, executive of Columbiana County Boy Scouts, as the speaker. His theme will be "Faith in Our Youth".

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: We need advice from a stranger. You just don't talk to your clergyman about things like this.

Our daughter is 26. She has a good job in a big hotel. Her boy friend, Joe, works there as a bellhop. They've been going together 3 years. Joe has never once mentioned marriage although he's 30 and never takes out anyone but our Bessie.

He lives in a rooming house near us. Three nights a week he comes for dinner and uses our bathtub. He says it's impossible to get into the bathroom where he lives. We don't mind except he never cleans the tub after himself. Once I put a can of detergent right in the middle of the tub but he didn't take the hint.

We wouldn't care if we were sure he'd be in the family some day but we don't want to be taken advantage of. What do you think, Ann? — NO NAMES.

Dear No Names: I suspect the only ring you'll ever see is the one Joe leaves around the tub. A fellow 30 who has been going with a girl three years would surely have declared himself if he had any serious intentions.

Bessie should have a frank talk with Joe and tell him to walk down the aisle or take a walk.

Spendthrift Daughter

Dear Ann: Our 16-year-old complained bitterly that we never let her exercise her own judgment. She begged for more independence. My husband and I agreed to give her a chance.

We started by letting her have $500. This was supposed to take care of all her needs, including clothing, lunch money, spending money, club dues, transportation—whatever came along.

We gave her the money on her 16th birthday (Nov. 15). It was understood she was to get another $500 on May 15. In other words, a total of $1,000 total annual allowance.

Well, here it is February and she hasn't got a nickel to her name. She bought a satin evening coat, 20-inch white kid gloves, velvet lounging pants, gold harem slippers and a blonde wig "for kicks." I could use your entire column to list the foolish things she did with her money.

Now she whines that a girl can't go around penniless and she wants an advance on the next $500. What shall we do? — DISGUSTED.

Dear Disgusted: If you give this addle-brained kid another $500 you have less sense than she has.

She wanted a chance to use her own judgment and she got it. Give her exactly enough money for transportation and milk to go with the sandwiches she can carry from home. An additional 50 cents a week until May 1 should be the limit. Then put her back on a weekly allowance —and make it conservative.

100 Per Cent Sick

Dear Ann: "One hundred per cent Mom" made me "100 per cent sick.

"Why do parents get insulted when their kids are not included in every invitation? I don't blame a bride for saying, "no kids," at her wedding dinner and reception. This is supposed to be her happiest day and she has the right to want it to be as nearly perfect as possible.

I've seen some of these kids who are considerd "little gentlemen" by their parents. They are usualby hogging the sweets table, sliding around on the dance floor, fighting or nagging to go home.

I probably will be called every name in the book by your readers. Nothing infuriates people like criticizing their children but I simply had to tell you, Ann, that I for one am with you 100 per cent on this. — PHOOEY ON KIDS AT FANCY PARTIES.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

In Winter Doldrums? Work At Home

By VIVIAN BROWN
(AP) Newsfeatures

One good way to avoid winter doldrums is to refurbish your home. You don't have to spend a bucket of money, homemakers find, and the therapy is good for what ails you.

"I long for a new bright color in my home," writes a bored homemaker. "But I am not too good at choosing colors and I can't afford to do over the entire house. I am sure that if I started on a project it would be disastrous and I would have to re-do everything to make it all come out looking right. Is there any safe gauge in choosing colors?"

Experts tell us a good plan is to have about 70 per cent of the room in one dominant color, preferably neutral or a gray tone. A secondary color could be used in 20 to 25 per cent of the room It could be the color scheme of the floor, draperies, slipcovers or furniture upholstery. This could be a strong color.

THE ACCENT color could make up about 5 per cent of the room, and offer the real bright spot in the room. Often when a room looks dreary, it is this very brightness that is lacking, but may be added easily.

It could be on a small chair, throw pillows, pictures, wall hangings, lamps or the smaller objects such as ash trays. The accent color shouldn't be used in too many places as it might create a spotty look.

If walls are cream, brown tones might be selected as the secondary color, and yellow could be the accent for the room.

Another homemaker writes: "My husband and I both suffer from a case of nerves due to living in a small house with four children. We'd love it if we could each just hide ourselves for an hour or so every day for meditation — book reading or what not. We have been thinking about cleaning up our attic and building a little spot where we can get away from it all. The attic ceiling is low, however, and there is a lot of junk up there. Is there any way of screening it out that would not be too expensive? Do you have suggestions for color schemes?"

There are many types of screens available, ranging from the more expensive Japanese style screens to the less expensive shoji designs or those made of louvered doors. A very inexpensive arrangement could be a series of bamboo shades across the area you want to screen out.

I THINK yellow is the ideal color to screen out dreariness. It is a warm, vibrant color, but it might not appeal to you. You might prefer a rosy hue or bright white.

Put a comfortable studio lounge in the little hide-a-way section of the attic and cover it with a gay fabric. Duplicate the fabric at the windows, and put a small throw rug down in front of the sofa.

A chair could be placed in front of the sofa, along with a little table to make a cosy grouping. A small radio could be put on the lamp table, and if there is space, a small book case could serve not only as an end table, but a place to keep those items you will call upon in your solitude — Sunday papers, magazines, sewing kit, paint box and easel.

Another letter: "Does drapery arrangement have anything to do with masking the efficiency of baseboard radiators?"

Tests have shown that there is no appreciable change in a baseboard's heating efficiency regardless of drapery length. But the best results have been obtained with a space of one inch between the floor and drapery. If draperies contain metallic threads, these may pick up heat from the distributor and make the draperies act as a radiator itself to heat the room, specialists point out.

"Do you know of a screening material that may be put around a porch so that small animals and debris does not gather underneath it?"

One material used for this purpose is metal lath, the same material that is used as a plaster base for tile.

You will need to measure the area, then cut the metal lath with a tinner's snip to fit. It should then be nailed or stapled to the back of a panel that will fit inside the area. It may be painted before installation.

The houses, like the first, are being built on slab, with post and beam construction and concrete block walls.

Home builders who looked over the Michigan project think that the wall concept will increase the use of masonry for both exteriors and interiors.

The plan permits the use of cement blocks, with insulation provided by a water - repellent vermiculite masonry fill which is poured directly into the cores of the blocks. Its supporters say that the insulation is capable of reducing heat loss by more than 50 per cent.

LAST YEAR, a new idea was introduced in the hanging of interior residential doors.

It involved hanging the doors over the wall openings rather than in them. The latest thing in this line is bi-folding door hardware for closet openings. This hardware allows the doors to be folded back so that the entire closet archway is clear, resulting in easy access to the entire interior.

Adjustable wall-shelf units now are being put out in special kits, so that even the not-so-handyman will have no trouble with them.

Included are hardwood shelves, wall channels, adjustable brackets and brass retaining pins. The only tool required is a screwdriver.

EXHIBITED AT the recent convention of the National Association of Home Builders was a central home ventilating unit.

It permits central ventilation of kitchens and bathrooms in new or already constructed homes. Based on the idea that today's construction locates bathrooms and kitchens as close together as possible, the new product uses a compact central blower to pull air from as many as three different areas.

Fencing material is being made from a new plastic material similar to the translucent fiberglass sheeting used in patio roofs. It comes in colors and is said to retain its high gloss without painting or other maintenance costs. Used up to now only for industrial fencing, it is expected to reach the home market soon.

If Your Windows Stick, This Could Be Answer

One of the real discomforts to be found in a house is the sticking window. And there are few homes without one or more of them.

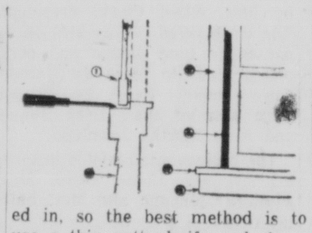

They never improve with age. It actually takes about a half - hour to permanently fix even the worst case, so there is little excuse for putting up with it.

The two sketches here are quite plain. The first shows the lower half of a standard sash. Note that the sash sets down on the outside window sill and outside of the inner window sill. A wood chisel, shown in solid black, is driven under the lower edge of the window and this usually breaks out any paint seal or other cause of sticking.

As soon as there is an inch or two of opening, the sash can be pried or levered upward. Once the groove in which the window slides is exposed, patient sanding or scraping, followed by applying a stick lubricant, should make a permanent job.

The cure for the upper sash is not so easy, as there is no joint anywhere around it into which you can drive a chisel.

The upper sash is actually boxed in, so the best method is to use a thin putty knife and shove it in all around between the sash frame and the grooves around it. This is very effective, since it spreads the grooves slightly.

With the upper sash, the lubricant should be applied, after sanding, and before you try to draw the sash down. Number (4) on the drawing indicates the stop-bead, which can be taken off in the event that the sash has to be taken out of the frame altogether. Number (1) indicates the sash in cross-section, (2) the outside house wall, (3) the inside window trim, (5) the inner window sill and (6) the apron.

Any window that has to be pounded, pulled and strained at is going to go to pieces rapidly because the construction of a window is necessarily light.

Ohio Civil Rights Unit Being 'Well Received'

CLEVELAND (AP)—The new Ohio Civil Rights Commission is being "very well received," according to Frank W. Baldau, the commission's executive director.

Speaking Sunday in surburban Brecksville, Baldau said the agency, now six months old, has satisfactorily resolved five of 50 cases since the Ohio fair employment practices law was adopted. He said the other cases are pending. He said industry has been "very cooperative."

Hits At News Media

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Elmer J. Holland (D-Pa) told a United Rubber Workers Union meeting here Sunday night that newspapers, radio and television are part of a propaganda machine to overwhelm labor. He said the news media have emphasized existence of a few crooked labor leaders and have ignored instances of what he termed crooked management.

Lima, the capital of Peru, frequently has dense fogs which make it seem damp. In contrast, there is little heavy rainfall.

Paar Now Plans To Take Vacation In South America

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Paar says he hopes to leave today or Tuesday for a long vacation in South America. When he gets back, he says, he'll meet with officials of the National Broadcasting Co.

Announcer Hugh Downs will appear tonight as master of ceremonies of Paar's television show. The comedian walked out during the show Thursday night, furious because NBC had cut one of his jokes off the program the night before.

Paar said then he wouldn't return to the show, despite his contract with NBC. Sunday he said: "I still hope I don't have to go back to the 'Tonight' show. But I don't want to be sued."

NBC apologized to Paar for not notifying him in advance that the joke had been edited out of his taped program. But the network defended its right to make the deletion. NBC said the joke was in bad taste.

At his Bronxville, N.Y., home Paar said: "I'm going to fly to South America either Monday or Tuesday."

NBC reportedly receives a gross income of 10 million dollars annually from the Paar show. The star is believed to be paid about $4,100 a week.

"I don't think the show will last long unless they get somebody to take over," Paar said. "Already I'm told, some of the sponsors are anxious and the talent is quitting. Genevieve has quit, Charley Weaver—Cliff Arquette—has quit and I don't want anything to happen to Jose Melis."

Paar said he hopes his vacation will last "a good long time." He said he planned to move around often to avoid further comment during the South American trip.

They never improve with age. It actually takes about a half - hour to permanently fix even the worst case, so there is little excuse for putting up with it.

The two sketches here are quite plain. The first shows the lower half of a standard sash. Note that the sash sets down on the outside window sill and outside of the inner window sill. A wood chisel, shown in solid black, is driven under the lower edge of the window and this usually breaks out any paint seal or other cause of sticking.

As soon as there is an inch or two of opening, the sash can be pried or levered upward. Once the groove in which the window slides is exposed, patient sanding or scraping, followed by applying a stick lubricant, should make a permanent job.

The cure for the upper sash is not so easy, as there is no joint anywhere around it into which you can drive a chisel.

The upper sash is actually boxed in, so the best method is to use a thin putty knife and shove it in all around between the sash frame and the grooves around it. This is very effective, since it spreads the grooves slightly.

With the upper sash, the lubricant should be applied, after sanding, and before you try to draw the sash down. Number (4) on the drawing indicates the stop-bead, which can be taken off in the event that the sash has to be taken out of the frame altogether. Number (1) indicates the sash in cross-section, (2) the outside house wall, (3) the inside window trim, (5) the inner window sill and (6) the apron.

Any window that has to be pounded, pulled and strained at is going to go to pieces rapidly because the construction of a window is necessarily light.

Ohio Civil Rights Unit Being 'Well Received'

CLEVELAND (AP)—The new Ohio Civil Rights Commission is being "very well received," according to Frank W. Baldau, the commission's executive director.

Speaking Sunday in surburban Brecksville, Baldau said the agency, now six months old, has satisfactorily resolved five of 50 cases since the Ohio fair employment practices law was adopted. He said the other cases are pending. He said industry has been "very cooperative."

Hits At News Media

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Elmer J. Holland (D-Pa) told a United Rubber Workers Union meeting here Sunday night that newspapers, radio and television are part of a propaganda machine to overwhelm labor. He said the news media have emphasized existence of a few crooked labor leaders and have ignored instances of what he termed crooked management.

Lima, the capital of Peru, frequently has dense fogs which make it seem damp. In contrast, there is little heavy rainfall.

Paar Now Plans To Take Vacation In South America

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Paar says he hopes to leave today or Tuesday for a long vacation in South America. When he gets back, he says, he'll meet with officials of the National Broadcasting Co.

Announcer Hugh Downs will appear tonight as master of ceremonies of Paar's television show. The comedian walked out during the show Thursday night, furious because NBC had cut one of his jokes off the program the night before.

Paar said then he wouldn't return to the show, despite his contract with NBC. Sunday he said: "I still hope I don't have to go back to the 'Tonight' show. But I don't want to be sued."

NBC apologized to Paar for not notifying him in advance that the joke had been edited out of his taped program. But the network defended its right to make the deletion. NBC said the joke was in bad taste.

At his Bronxville, N.Y., home Paar said: "I'm going to fly to South America either Monday or Tuesday."

NBC reportedly receives a gross income of 10 million dollars annually from the Paar show. The star is believed to be paid about $4,100 a week.

"I don't think the show will last long unless they get somebody to take over," Paar said. "Already I'm told, some of the sponsors are anxious and the talent is quitting. Genevieve has quit, Charley Weaver—Cliff Arquette—has quit and I don't want anything to happen to Jose Melis."

Paar said he hopes his vacation will last "a good long time." He said he planned to move around often to avoid further comment during the South American trip.

Paint For Safety's Sake

NEW YORK — More than 40 per cent of the accidents that occur to Americans every year take place in the home. Many of these could be avoided by using paint as a danger signal and to make hazardous areas more visible.

Stairs can be made safer if stripes are used to mark the top and bottom steps, particularly on basement stairs. Orange and black, yellow and black, or black and white are combinations which scream for attention.

Painting stripes is simple if this technique is used. First paint the entire step the lighter color. When this coat has dried, make a striped pattern with masking tape and paint the exposed area black. Strip off the tape when the paint has dried — the striped safety pattern remains.

MANY PEOPLE, however, object to a striped pattern when the basement is used as a family room or playroom. If this is true in your home, then paint the bottom step in a color lighter than the other steps, one which works in with the color scheme of the basement room.

Wherever there are dark, enclosed stairwells in the house, the walls should be painted with one of the colors that has the highest light reflective power, such as white, ivory or yellow. Illuminate such danger spots adequately.

A family with children or elderly members can be spared many falls and bruises if all the thresholds over which someone may stumble are painted with a floor enamel that stands out from the surrounding floor colors.

Low pipes in the basement are built-in skull crackers. It is a good idea to paint them, and any other low-hanging areas, with yellow, the color of highest visibility. Other bright, attention-getting colors can be used too, either solid or in stripes.

THE SAME danger exists with garage doors that slide into the roof when they are not raised to the maximum height. Treat them the same way as you did the pipes. A driveway in the suburbs or country that is not lighted with electricity can be outlined with white painted rocks or with fluorescent paint, as can gates and posts marking the entrance to the property.

Falls from ladders are high on the danger list, so paint color rings on the rungs to make them more visible. However, do not paint the whole ladder since the coating can hide cracks which might lead to a broken rung and a broken neck.

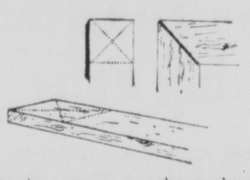

Red paint should be reserved to indicate the location of fire extinguishers, while green, the accepted sign of safety, can be used to mark any first-aid cabinets. Fuse boxes should be painted with a luminescent paint to make it easier to locate them if a fuse has to be replaced in the dark.

By preventing wood from rotting, paint of any kind can contribute to home safety. If exterior porches, steps, fences and railings are sound, there is little chance of their collapsing and causing injury.

Pet Shop Owner Has 2 Pets Not For Sale

KENILWORTH, N. J. (AP) — Jack Birgel runs a pet shop but says he has two personal pets that are not for sale.

One of his prize ppossessions is an albino lung fish, native of Africa. The other is a giant fruit-eating Indian bat.

The fish, about 28 inches long, is said to be one of only six ever found and one of the two live ones known to be in existence. Birgel values it at about $1,000.

The bat, which has 30-inch wingspread, consumes its weight in food daily. Birgel says he has been able to train it and has given it the freedom of the house.

Action Waited In Wisconsin

By The Associated Press

The fate of Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) on the Wisconsin battleground may be affected soon by two decisions.

The decisions will be made by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, conceded sure victory in his question of the Republican nomination, and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), conceded little chance in his race for the Democratic nomination.

It was learned in Washington Sunday that Nixon probably would decide to let Republican leaders enter his name in Wisconsin's April 5 primary.

If he enters the primary, party officials would try to roll up an impressive vote for the unopposed vice president. They would pressure Republicans to mark the GOP ballot instead of crossing over to vote in the more interesting Democratic contest.

This would be good news for Humphrey, who has said he fears that Wisconsin Republicans, spurred on by Minnesota Republicans, will vote against him in the Democratic contest. Their motive: to give him a black eye while his nearby Minnesota constituents are watching.

The second decision also involves the Wisconsin primary. Sen. Morse, on a television show Sunday, said he would decide within a few days whether to enter the primary.

"At the present time I am having a little poll taken in Wisconsin," Morse said, "and if I become convinced that I can get a great many progressive Republicans to vote for me, I may go in."

If he decided against entering the primary, the Oregon senator continued, he would support Humphrey.

Morse also said he would enter Maryland's May 17 primary against Kennedy.

"I don't think Senator Kennedy should have it on a platter," Morse explained.

So far, only Kennedy has filed in the contest for Maryland's 24 convention votes.

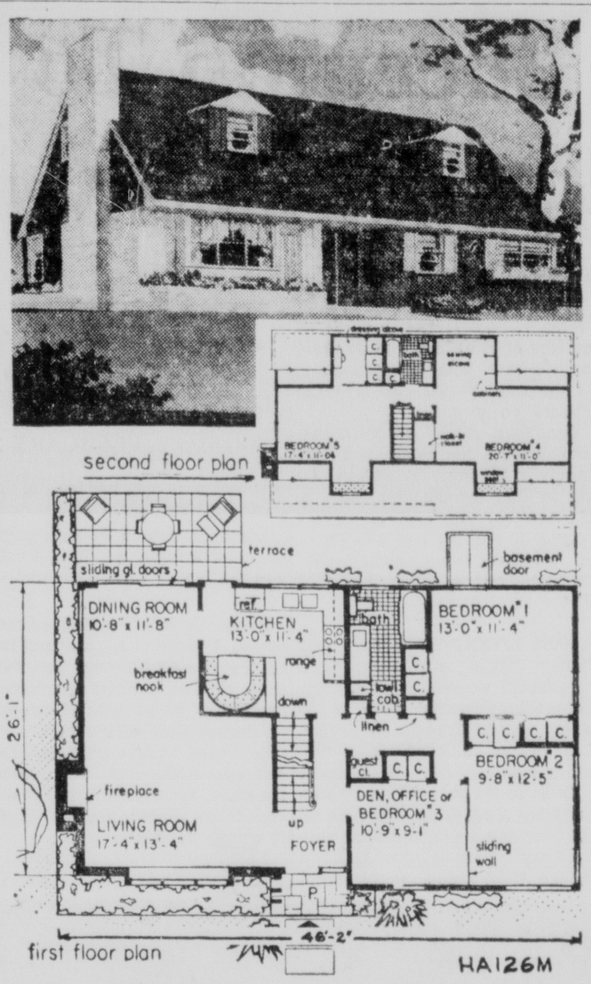

California's 81 votes, apparently sewed up by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as a favorite-son candidate, attracted Kennedy, Humphrey, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) to Fresno during the weekend for the California Democratic Council Convention.

The name of an unannounced and absent candidate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), also attracted attention. But he and Nixon were booed when Gov. Brown mentioned them in his keynote address. The governor, at a news conference later, apologized for the booing.

Symington, who has hammered away at the Eisenhower administration on the question of defense, took issue with a convention resolution which urged that the United States disarm by itself if the Geneva negotiations with the Soviet Union fail.

If that happened, Symington said, the United States would be at the mercy of the U.S.R.

Of the five New York City boroughs, the Bronx is the only one on the mainland.

FBI Pushes Investigation In Coors Case

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—The investigation of the disappearance of Adolph Coors III went on in official silence today.

The wealthy brewer and industrialist vanished six days ago on a rural road along the Rocky Mountain foothills.

The FBI has said only that its investigation is continuing. Sheriff Art Wermuth left his office here to attend a meeting with FBI officials Sunday night. He did not disclose the location or the purpose of the meeting.

Wermuth repeated his earlier belief that the millionaire chairman of the Adolph Coors Co. was kidnaped.

The Denver Post quoted an FBI official in Washington as saying that federal agents are working on this same presumption.

Coors, 44, vanished last Tuesday morning while driving to work from his foothills home.

His carryall-type vehicle, its engine running and the radio playing, was found abandoned on a wooden bridge south of here. Blood smears were found on the seat of the vehicle.

A woman who lives less than a quarter-mile from the bridge said she has told the FBI she heard a gunshot and loud voices from that direction the morning Coors disappeared.

Burglaries Stir Order To Keep Lights On

Pet Shop Owner Has 2 Pets Not For Sale

KENILWORTH, N. J. (AP) — Jack Birgel runs a pet shop but says he has two personal pets that are not for sale.

One of his prize ppossessions is an albino lung fish, native of Africa. The other is a giant fruit-eating Indian bat.

The fish, about 28 inches long, is said to be one of only six ever found and one of the two live ones known to be in existence. Birgel values it at about $1,000.

The bat, which has 30-inch wingspread, consumes its weight in food daily. Birgel says he has been able to train it and has given it the freedom of the house.

Action Waited In Wisconsin

By The Associated Press

The fate of Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) on the Wisconsin battleground may be affected soon by two decisions.

The decisions will be made by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, conceded sure victory in his question of the Republican nomination, and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), conceded little chance in his race for the Democratic nomination.

It was learned in Washington Sunday that Nixon probably would decide to let Republican leaders enter his name in Wisconsin's April 5 primary.

If he enters the primary, party officials would try to roll up an impressive vote for the unopposed vice president. They would pressure Republicans to mark the GOP ballot instead of crossing over to vote in the more interesting Democratic contest.

This would be good news for Humphrey, who has said he fears that Wisconsin Republicans, spurred on by Minnesota Republicans, will vote against him in the Democratic contest. Their motive: to give him a black eye while his nearby Minnesota constituents are watching.

The second decision also involves the Wisconsin primary. Sen. Morse, on a television show Sunday, said he would decide within a few days whether to enter the primary.

"At the present time I am having a little poll taken in Wisconsin," Morse said, "and if I become convinced that I can get a great many progressive Republicans to vote for me, I may go in."

If he decided against entering the primary, the Oregon senator continued, he would support Humphrey.

Morse also said he would enter Maryland's May 17 primary against Kennedy.

"I don't think Senator Kennedy should have it on a platter," Morse explained.

So far, only Kennedy has filed in the contest for Maryland's 24 convention votes.

California's 81 votes, apparently sewed up by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as a favorite-son candidate, attracted Kennedy, Humphrey, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) to Fresno during the weekend for the California Democratic Council Convention.

The name of an unannounced and absent candidate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), also attracted attention. But he and Nixon were booed when Gov. Brown mentioned them in his keynote address. The governor, at a news conference later, apologized for the booing.

Symington, who has hammered away at the Eisenhower administration on the question of defense, took issue with a convention resolution which urged that the United States disarm by itself if the Geneva negotiations with the Soviet Union fail.

If that happened, Symington said, the United States would be at the mercy of the U.S.R.

FBI Pushes Investigation In Coors Case

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—The investigation of the disappearance of Adolph Coors III went on in official silence today.

The wealthy brewer and industrialist vanished six days ago on a rural road along the Rocky Mountain foothills.

The FBI has said only that its investigation is continuing. Sheriff Art Wermuth left his office here to attend a meeting with FBI officials Sunday night. He did not disclose the location or the purpose of the meeting.

Wermuth repeated his earlier belief that the millionaire chairman of the Adolph Coors Co. was kidnaped.

The Denver Post quoted an FBI official in Washington as saying that federal agents are working on this same presumption.

Coors, 44, vanished last Tuesday morning while driving to work from his foothills home.

His carryall-type vehicle, its engine running and the radio playing, was found abandoned on a wooden bridge south of here. Blood smears were found on the seat of the vehicle.

A woman who lives less than a quarter-mile from the bridge said she has told the FBI she heard a gunshot and loud voices from that direction the morning Coors disappeared.

Apology In Order . . .

Officials of East Liverpool High School, the student body and some "adult fans" owe two basketball referees an apology after Saturday night's sad display of sportsmanship at Memorial Auditorium.

Ed Adkins and Lorin Howard, two East Liverpool officials, volunteered their services to help the high school. Instead of receiving a kind thank you, they got a slap in the face for their efforts.

The two agreed to work the game upon a request by Merrill Hall, ELHS athletic director, who requested any one with an official's card to come to the scoring table.

John Russ and Ralph Robinette, the two officials originally contracted to work the game, were stranded between East Liverpool and Youngstown because of the snow.

Adkins already had worked the preliminary game and Howard stepped forward out of the stands. We didn't see any other volunteers, only these two men!

The game wasn't very old when a foul called on an East Liverpool player brought boos and catcalls from the spectators, who apparently felt they had become qualified officials — but from the stands.

At one instance a popcorn ball was hurled from the student section interrupting play until the debris was cleaned up.

The booing persisted with every call made by either Adkins or Howard. Granted that 27 personals were called on East Liverpool throughout the 32-minute contest and Marietta won the game at the foul line.

A Foul Is A Foul! . . .

However, some fans fail to remember that Ray Bigelow fouled out in several other games this season and that Phil Chan and Bob Mackall have too.

East Liverpool players foul a lot, perhaps too much, and it has cost them several victories this season.

From our vantage point, most of the fouls the two officials called were fouls. Especially the careless one that put Bigelow out of the game when he crashed into Marietta's Tom Baker under East Liverpool's basket in the third quarter.

We know Adkins and Howard well. They were embarrassed by such rude treatment.

Both men were trying to do an honest and sincere job. Probably some of the fans figured that, being two home town officials, they would "lean" toward the Potters. But when the fouls were going against East Liverpool the spectators were up in arms.

During the three quarters the two worked, we felt they did a commendable job. They missed a few calls and maybe called a few they shouldn't have. But doesn't this happen in almost every basketball game?

We question the way Merrill Hall handled the situation when Russ and Robinette arrived in time to referee the fourth quarter. In our opinion, Russ and Robinette shouldn't have been allowed to dress and officiate the final period.

When they appeared, it brought a cheer from the crowd. And the East Liverpool cheerleaders were leading that cheer.

As Adkins and Howard made their exit, most of the 900 fans "booed" their approval.

By using Russ and Robinette in the fourth quarter, it led us to believe that even ELHS officials thought that Howard and Adkins were doing a poor job, which they were not.

It was the worst display of sportsmanship and treatment to two individuals which we have ever witnessed in East Liverpool.

Had not the two men volunteered their services, there wouldn't have been a game Saturday night.

They tried to do East Liverpool High School a favor, but instead received a kick in the seat of the pants.

The incident was downright disgusting. We hope it never happens again!

Potters Succumb To Marietta At Foul Line

Cunningham Nets 29 In 82-74 Loss

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters followed the script again Saturday in losing to Marietta, 82-74, before some 900 fans at Memorial Auditorium.

As in the last three games, the Potters lead most of the way, but let the victory slip out of their hands in the fourth quarter.

The Potters had Marietta in hot water all night, but for the second straight contest dropped the decision at the foul line.

Coach Jim Harris' crew outscored Marietta 29-26 from the field, but a rash of personal fouls were called on the Potters and Marietta netted 30 out of 42 attempts from the charity line.

—:—

THE FOUL line was the only thing that kept Marietta in the game during the first half.

East Liverpool lost three of its starters on fouls in the third quarter and that left the gate open for the visitors to rush in, catch up and then pull away in the final eight minutes.

Ray Bigelow, who had scored 11 points and was winning the battle of the boards against Marietta's Tom Baker, left with 4:15 still remaining in the third quarter.

This left the Potters almost helpless on the boards. The departure of Phil Chan, the accurate outside shot, with 1:55 remaining in the third period also hurt the Potters chances.

Chan had scored 16 points before leaving the game and was deadly in the third period when he hit on four straight set shots in ohe stretch. The other Potter regular to foul out was Bob Mackall, who went to the sidelines with 15 seconds showing on the clock in the third period.

EAST LIVERPOOL'S junior star Kenny Cunningham completed a sensational weeked. After his record-breaking performance of 39 points against Toronto on Friday, Cunningham tallied 29 more Saturday night.

He awed the partisan crowd with his jump shots from anywhere on the floor and his agile driving ability. Cunningham collected 27 points in the third three quarters, but was limited to only two fouls in the final eight minutes.

His total showed 11 field goals and 7 of 8 fouls. His best period was the second when he scored 14 points.

Baker, Marietta's leading scorer, played a whale of a game and led the Tigers with a 30-point performance. He was tough to stop under the boards as he whirled around for layups time after time.

He scored 9 times from the field and was at the foul line most of the night, as was the whole Marietta team. Baker fired in 12 of 17 charity tosses.

His running mate, All - Ohio Frank Christie, contributed 19 points to the attack, while Frank Spriggs, a neat southpaw, did considerable damage to the Potters with 16 points.

—:—

THE DEFEAT was East Liverpool's fourth straight and 10th of the season, while fifth-ranked Marietta made its weekend trip successful.

The Tigers picked up their 13th and 14th victories of the season on a road trip which included a step at Coshocton Friday night. Marietta is now 14-1 for the season.

Merrill Hall, athletic director, had to issue a call for officials before the game when John Russ and Ralph Robinette of Youngstown were detained by the snow between Youngstown and East Liverpool.

Lorin Howard and Ed Adkins, two local officials, worked three quarters of the contest until Russ and Robinette arrived.

The Potters showed a lead as great as 10 points early in the third quarter, but couldn't hold it after the departure of the three regulars.

After three early ties, East Liverpool led most of the way in the third period and was on top 20-17 when the quarter ended.

The Blue and White took a 46-42 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

In that first half, the Potters outscored Marietta 20-11 in field goals, but the visitors shot 24 fouls and made 20. Four different Marietta cagers shared in a string. The Tigers made their first 12 fouls.

Cunningham opened the third quarter with a field goal and Chan hit on two set shots to give East Liverpool its biggest margin of the game, 52-42.

—:—

THE POTTERS maintained a comfortale edge until the last two minutes of the period.

With Bigelow and Chan on the bench, Marietta pulled within one point, 64-63, when the buzzer sounded.

Jim Farley's field goal put Marietta in front 65-64 seconds after the fourth quarter opened.

Miller put the Potters back on top when Baker and Harold Adkins exchanged two points and the home team held a 68-67 edge.

With 4:35 remaining in the game, Christie hit on a jump shot and followed with another bucket to pad Marietta's lead.

Spriggs and John Wilburn added a basket each and shot the margin to 75-68 and it was all over for the Potters.

Bagdad Becomes One Of Favorites For Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The horse to beat in the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap may be a 4-year-old brown speedster named Bagdad.

The ease with which Bagdad won last Saturday's tuneup, plus his fine showing in two previous races, indicate that he is ready for a real smasher Feb. 27 in Santa Anita's race of the year.

Bagdad can go the mile and one-quarter, the distance of the big race. His sire was Double Jay, a New Jersey horse who did very well here at Santa Anita a few years back, in the $57,500 San Antonio Handicap Saturday at a mile and one-eighth, Bagdad was rated just off the pace until the stretch turn, then burst into first place and outran the favored First Landing all the way to the wire.

Cunningham Nets 29 In 82-74 Loss

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters followed the script again Saturday in losing to Marietta, 82-74, before some 900 fans at Memorial Auditorium.

As in the last three games, the Potters lead most of the way, but let the victory slip out of their hands in the fourth quarter.

The Potters had Marietta in hot water all night, but for the second straight contest dropped the decision at the foul line.

Coach Jim Harris' crew outscored Marietta 29-26 from the field, but a rash of personal fouls were called on the Potters and Marietta netted 30 out of 42 attempts from the charity line.

—:—

THE FOUL line was the only thing that kept Marietta in the game during the first half.

East Liverpool lost three of its starters on fouls in the third quarter and that left the gate open for the visitors to rush in, catch up and then pull away in the final eight minutes.

Ray Bigelow, who had scored 11 points and was winning the battle of the boards against Marietta's Tom Baker, left with 4:15 still remaining in the third quarter.

This left the Potters almost helpless on the boards. The departure of Phil Chan, the accurate outside shot, with 1:55 remaining in the third period also hurt the Potters chances.

Chan had scored 16 points before leaving the game and was deadly in the third period when he hit on four straight set shots in one stretch. The other Potter regular to foul out was Bob Mackall, who went to the sidelines with 15 seconds showing on the clock in the third period.

EAST LIVERPOOL'S junior star Kenny Cunningham completed a sensational weeked. After his record-breaking performance of 39 points against Toronto on Friday, Cunningham tallied 29 more Saturday night.

He awed the partisan crowd with his jump shots from anywhere on the floor and his agile driving ability. Cunningham collected 27 points in the third three quarters, but was limited to only two fouls in the final eight minutes.

His total showed 11 field goals and 7 of 8 fouls. His best period was the second when he scored 14 points.

Baker, Marietta's leading scorer, played a whale of a game and led the Tigers with a 30-point performance. He was tough to stop under the boards as he whirled around for layups time after time.

He scored 9 times from the field and was at the foul line most of the night, as was the whole Marietta team. Baker fired in 12 of 17 charity tosses.

His [illegible]nning mate, All - Ohio [illegible]stie, contributed 19 points to the attack, while Frank Spriggs, a neat southpaw, did considerable damage to the Potters with 16 points.

—:—

THE DEFEAT was East Liverpool's fourth straight and 10th of the season, while fifth-ranked Marietta made its weekend trip successful.

The Tigers picked up their 13th and 14th victories of the season on a road trip which included a step at Coshocton Friday night. Marietta is now 14-1 for the season.

Merrill Hall, athletic director, had to issue a call for officials before the game when John Russ and Ralph Robinette of Youngstown were detained by the snow between Youngstown and East Liverpool.

Lorin Howard and Ed Adkins, two local officials, worked three quarters of the contest until Russ and Robinette arrived.

The Potters showed a lead as great as 10 points early in the third quarter, but couldn't hold it after the departure of the three regulars.

After three early ties, East Liverpool led most of the way in the third period and was on top 20-17 when the quarter ended.

The Blue and White took a 46-42 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

In that first half, the Potters outscored Marietta 20-11 in field goals, but the visitors shot 24 fouls and made 20. Four different Marietta cagers shared in a string. The Tigers made their first 12 fouls.

Cunningham opened the third quarter with a field goal and Chan hit on two set shots to give East Liverpool its biggest margin of the game, 52-42.

—:—

THE POTTERS maintained a comfortale edge until the last two minutes of the period.

With Bigelow and Chan on the bench, Marietta pulled within one point, 64-63, when the buzzer sounded.

Jim Farley's field goal put Marietta in front 65-64 seconds after the fourth quarter opened.

Miller put the Potters back on top when Baker and Harold Adkins exchanged two points and the home team held a 68-67 edge.

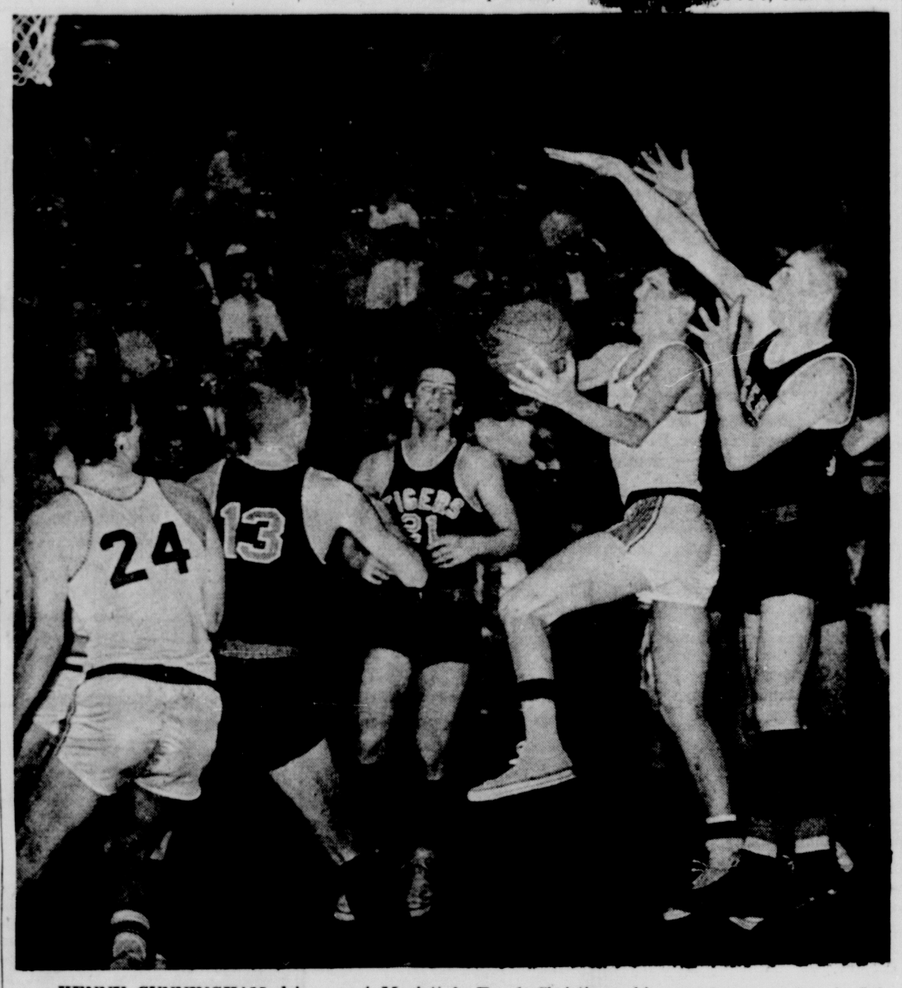

With 4:35 remaining in the game, Christie hit on a jump shot and followed with another bucket to pad Marietta's lead.

Spriggs and John Wilburn added a basket each and shot the margin to 75-68 and it was all over for the Potters.

Hank, Matthews To Offer Action For Boxing Fans

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Henry Hank, a Detroit middleweight with a good wallop, and Lenny Matthews, a stiff punching Philadelphia lightweight, promise to provide most of the week's boxing action.

Hank, forced to stray out of his weight class to get action, boxes Sixto Rodriguez of Mountain View, Calif., on the Wednesday show at Chicago Stadium. Hank stopped Jesse Bowdry Dec. 7 and repeated the job in six rounds Jan. 27 at Chicago.

The light heavy rankings show Rodriguez either No. 4 (National Boxing Assn.) or No. 5 (Ring). In his last three, the Puerto Rican-born boxer drew with Von Clay, lost to Mike Holt in Johannesburg, South Africa and whipped Orlando Dipietri.

The Hank-Rodriguez bout will be seen on ABC-TV.

Matthews, a one-round knockout winner over New York's Johnny Busso fight was his only 1960 the leading lightweights. Ring has him No. 6, the NBA No. 7. The Busso fight was his only 1960 start. Last year he won six of nine, losing to Willie Toweel in his last appearance at Madison Square Garden.

Matthews' opponent Friday at the Garden will be Lahouari Godih of France by way of Algeria. He took a Feb. 1 fight on short notice as a sub and won over Roger Harvey at the Academy of Music in New York.

The Matthews-Godih scrap will be carried on network (NBC) radio and television.

The Palm Desert, Calif., golfer said "the cups were just bigger for me" as she toured the 6,116-yard Sunset Country Club Course four times for a 72-hole card of 287. Her windup Sunday included three birdies and 13 pars. Miss Hanson won $1,247 in the $7,500 tournament.

Louise Suggs of Atlanta was two strokes off the Californian's pace on the final round and that was the margin by which she landed in scond place. She won $961. Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, was third at 290 and won $760.

Bagdad Becomes One Of Favorites For Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The horse to beat in the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap may be a 4-year-old brown speedster named Bagdad.

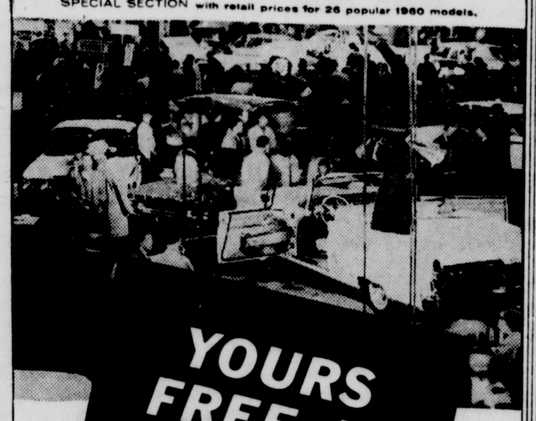

The ease with which Bagdad won last Saturday's tuneup, plus his fine showing in two previous races, indicate that he is ready for a real smasher Feb. 27 in Santa Anita's race of the year.

Bagdad can go the mile and one-quarter, the distance of the big race. His sire was Double Jay, a New Jersey horse who did very well here at Santa Anita a few years back, in the $57,500 San Antonio Handicap Saturday at a mile and one-eighth, Bagdad was rated just off the pace until the stretch turn, then burst into first place and outran the favored First Landing all the way to the wire.

Wellsville Notches 74-53 Win Over Goshen Union Five

Tigers Post 12th Victory Of Season

Wellsville High took command early in the game and went on to defeat Goshen Union, 74-53, Saturday night at Beacom Memorial gym.

Several hundred fans braved a heavy snowfall to see Coach Jack McDevitt's Tigers extend their season mark to 12-3 and at the same time record their fourth triumph in succession.

Paced by the scoring of junior Bob Kiggans, the Tigers snared a 19-12 first-period lead. Kiggans dumped in 10 points in the period, including a pair of field goals and six straight free throws.

Wellsville kept the attack going in the second quarter and threw in 20 points to take a 39-27 halftime lead. Senior guard Ray Franklin sparked Wellsville's third-period assault with six points as the Tigers went ahead, 58-37.

Second-stringers saw plenty of action in the fourth period. The Tigers enjoyed a 16-point fourth quarter in coasting to the victory.

Kiggans scored 16 points in leading the scoring, while center Franklin Jackson contributed 11 and guard Mac Comparetto 10.

The Mahoning County club suffered its eighth loss in 15 games despite a 23-point performance by Lynn Barnett. He was the only Goshen regular to hit double figures with nine goals and five free throws. Loudon and Brown, two other starters, got nine points each.

In the preliminary, Coach Carl Firm's Wellsville reserves raced to an 18-2 first period lead on the way to a 64-46 victory over Goshen's reserves. Ray Crews' 11 points led the Tigers. Anderson scored 15 for Goshen Union.

Forfeit Puts Church Loop In 3-Way Tie

Three teams are tied in the Inter-Collegiate Division of the YMCA-Church League after play Saturday night.

The tie came about when it was discovered that the First Methodist team had used an ineligible player in its first game of the season against St. John's Lutheran. The game has been forfeited as a win for St. John's.

That leaves St. John's, St. Stephen's and First Methodist deadlocked with 5-1 records.

First U. P. and Trinity U. P. still remained tied for the lead in the Collegiate Division.

In Saturday's contests, St. Stephen's routed St. John's, 24-5, as Burbick tossed in 14 points. Bob Forzano scored three for the losers.

First Church of the Nazarene scored a 25-22 victory over Newell First Presbyterian. Stover and Cunningham netted 12 and 11 points, respectively, for the winners while Bailey had 16 for the Newell five.

Roush scored 13 points to pace First Methodist in a 24-6 win over Chester First Methodist. Clunk tallied four for the Chester club.

First Church of Christ picked up a 21-12 win over Second U. P. as Kinsey poured in 12 points for the winning team. Loy had six markers for Second U. P.

First U. P. came up with a 24-13 victory over Chester Christian. Oliver's 9 points were top for First U. P., while Williams dropped in 8 for Chester.

Calvary Methodist dropped a 14-9 decision to Anderson Mehodist, which was sparked by Bud Manley's 10 points. Dull and Hanselman had three each for Calvary.

Trinity U. P. scored a 17-3 victory over Chester U. P. Eckert's 8 points topped the winners.

Oakland Free Methodist posted a 33-10 decision over Grace U. P. Ken Page poured in 12 points for Oakland, while Greg Talbot's 8 featured for the losers.

Two Big Ones Set For Ohio College Ranks

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two of the season's biggest games are on tap tonight for Ohio's collegiate cagers.

One sends Ohio State's Buckeyes to Champaign for a game with Illinois, the other finds Toledo's Rockets in Athens for a tilt with Ohio University.

The Bucks, leading the Big Ten with 9-0, may have that mark dirtied a bit since they haven't won on the Illini floor since 1945. Illinois is tied for second with Indiana at 5-3, and before the curtain falls the Bucks must face the Hoosiers at Bloomington, defending champion Michigan State (5-5) at East Lansing, and fourth-place Minnesota (6-4) at Mineapolis.

Thus, despite their great record, the Bucks have no bed of roses the rest of the way—although they are favored highly to breeze into the throne room.

Ohio U. and Toledo are deadlocked at 8-1 for the Mid-American loop lead, no one else having a chance since Bowling Green is closest with 4-4. Ohio U.'s lone loss was 63-53 at Toledo, while Bowling Green hung the lone setback on the Rockets by 86-82.

The Athens team, due to the potent home floor advantage, could well turn the tables on the Rockets. Host clubs hold an exact 2-1 advantage over the visitors this year, aving won 310 and lost 155.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who boosted his all-time scoring record to 2,693 for 78 games last week with a two-game 93-point surge, gets one chance to add to his national mark this week as the Bearcats go against Houston Saturday in Texas. The "Big O" has 731 points for his 20 games this year, a nation-leading average of 36.5.

Wittenberg could clinch at least a share of the Ohio Conference crown this week by beating Denison Tuesday, and Defiance could do the same in the Mid - Ohio by trimming Bluffton Wednesday. Wittenberg, seeking its second straight crown in the sprawling Ohio loop, has a 9-0 record to second-place Muskingum's 9-2, while Defiance with 8-1 is far ahead of runnerup Ohio Northern's 6-3.

The big oddity in the Mid-Ohio is that Ashland, averaging 100.4 points for 10 games, has been able to win only six. The Eagles smothered Cedarville 134 to 93 Saturday—the season's top score in the state — after beating Lawrence Tech 102-93 the night before.

The Buckeye clubs continue to batter out-of-state opposition. Last week the Ohio's won 17 and lost 12 in interstate play, for a season record of 174-108, and a scoring advantage of 21,879 to 20,371.

Olympics Open Thursday

Ski Artists To Test Course Today At Squaw Valley

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—International ski racers cut loose at high speeds today testing their skills against perilous downhill courses where Olympic championships will be decided this week.

After two days of testing the men's and women's courses at lower speeds, this was the day set to go all out.

The Olympics open Thursday with the men's downhill slated for Friday and the women's on Saturday as two early features of the 11-day program.

The men will race the full two-mile course with crash helmets required. They'll start at intervals of one minute to one minute, 15 seconds.

Training runs for the women won't be on such a formal basis, but probably Tuesday they'll zoom under the same conditions.

An estimated 6,500 visitors swarmed through this 2½-mile valley Sunday in warm sunny weather to watch the athletes ski and skate.

A practice hockey game between the United States and Japan went to the Yanks 10-0 in a battle marred by penalties and near fist-fights.

Japanese Capt. Yoshihiro Miyazaka hit the ice during a scuffle with Dick Meredith from Minneapolis, Minn. The Japanese jumped up and swung his stick at Meredith who was skating away. Both were sent to the penalty box.

American Coach Jack Riley then warned his men that the next one cited for roughness would go to the showers.

Brundage Urges Flags, Hymns Be Forgotten

By BOB MYERS
Assocated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 56th session of the International Olympic Committee gets down to serious business today to deal with cases involving the upcoming winter games at Squaw Valley and the summer games at Rome.

Up for immediate debate, was the latest international hot potato dropped into the August IOC laps by President Avery Brundage.

The wealthy Chicago boss of the IOC proposes that national flags and hymns be eliminated from future Olympic ceremonies.

Varied and vociferous was the reaction here and at Squaw Valley, where the 1960 winter games start Thursday.

Brundage started the controversy two days ago when the IOC sessions opened in San Francisco's War Memorial Opera House.

Contestants, he said, "should come simply as sportsmen and not as representatives of a country."

IOC Chancellor Otto Mayer of Switzerland said that with some variation he agreed with Brundage.

At Squaw Valley, Otto Lorenz, president of the Austrian Ski Assn. said: "I am against it. Raising of flags and playing of natioal hymns has become a tradition of Olympic games, and one should not discard tradition without any real cause."

Ex-Carolina Runner Credits Coach For His Latest Victory

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Prosperity has suddenly struck Jim Beatty, a former North Carolina runner who never had won anything more important than a couple of Atlantic Coast Conference championships in his college days.

Already this season he has won two big races. He beat Max Truex, one of America's top distance runners in an 8:57 two-mile, and in the New York A. C. Games in Madison Square Garden last Saturday, won the Baxter Mile in 4:05.4.

"It wasn't very hard, really," said the 5-6 Beatty today. "All I did was what the coach told me."

Before the last Olympic Games, Igloi's stable of Hungarian distance runners held every world record from 1,500 meters right up to 10,000 meters.

In view of the troubles the United States has had developing distance runners—we haven't had an Olympic champion in anything from the 1,500 meters up except for Horace Ashenfelter in the steeplechase in 1952 since 1912—it might not be a bad idea to enlist Igloi's aid.

Beatty, 25, and a former rabbit for Ron Delany, barely beat out 19-year-old Dyrol Burleson of Oregon, perhaps the No. 1 U.S. hope for the 1,500 meters in Rome this year.

A record number of 5,716 teams will bowl in the 1960 ABC tournament in Toledo, Ohio.

Ohio Teams To Battle For NAIA Tourney

ADA, Ohio (AP) — The top four teams in the Mid-Ohio League will battle for Ohio's berth in the national NAIA basketball tournament at Kansas City March 7-12.

The Ohio tournament—held by District 22 of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics — will be played at Bluffton College Feb. 29-March 1.

District 22 representatives, meeting here Sunday, selected league-leading Defiance (8-1) to compete with the second, third and fourth place finishes in the Mid-Ohio. In those spots now are Ohio Northern (6-3), Ashland (6-4), and Wilmington (5-4).

Hearn Wins Golf Title By One-Stroke Margin

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "It was like winning a 1-0 ball game."

That's the way Jim Hearn, former major league pitching star, described his one-stroke victory Sunday which made him new golf champion of major league baseball players.

The 36-year-old Hearn fired a closing round of 75 to finish with a 72-hole total of 301 and capture the National Baseball Players Golf Championship at Miami Springs Country Club.

Al Dark, veteran infielder of the Philadelphia Phillies and three - time champion of this event, was runnerup at 302. Albie Pearson of the Baltimore Orioles was third at 304.

It was the first time in the 20-year history of the event that competition was in medal play.

The marathon race is traditionally 26 miles, 385 yards long.

Celtics Move Closer To 4th Eastern Title

By The Associated Press

The remarkable Boston Celtics, brushing aside the threat imposed by Wilt Chamberlain and Co., have virtually clinched their fourth consecutive Eastern Division championship in the National Basketball Assn.

Red Auerbach's band of precisionists cut off Philadelphia's last threat over the weekend by sweeping a two-game series and lengthening their lead over the runnerup Warriors to eight games with only 14 left to play.

Chamberlain, who sat out Saturday's 122-120 loss, returned to the line-up Sunday after having some teeth extracted.

The 7 - foot - 1 Stilt, who established an NBA single-season scoring record last week, popped in 25 points and broke the league's one-season rebound mark, but the better-balanced Celtics romped to a 125-115 victory.

In other Sunday games, the Western Division leading St. Louis Hawks moved out to a 12-game lead over Detroit with a 107-105 victory over Cincinnati, and Syracuse edged Minneapolis 121-119 on Dolph Schayes layup with three seconds left.

The runner-up Pistons had an opportunity to gain on St. Louis Saturday but dropped a 123-117 overtime decision to Minneapolis while the Hawks were being thumped by New York 122-104.

Chamberlain, somewhat below peak form, pulled down 19 rebounds Sunday for a season total of 1,625, 13 more than Boston's Bill Russell grabbed last year.

MacKay Regains Title By Beating Dick Savitt

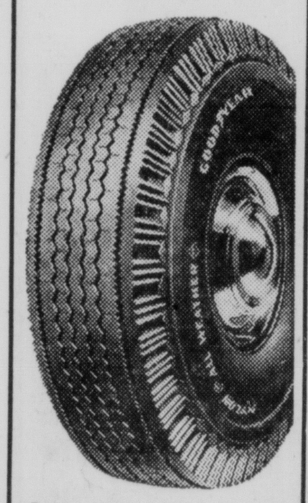

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) —Barry Mac Kay, of Dayton, has recaptured the Midwinter Invitation tennis championship he held two years ago.

The 24-year-old amateur star, America's prime hope for regaining the Davis Cup, defeated Dick Savitt, the defending champion, 6-3, 9-7, Sunday to win the Crown.

The St. Louis duo of Earl Buchholz and Chuck Mac Kinley, both 19, captured the doubles championship with an easy 6-1, 6-4 victory over Bill Talbert and Savitt. Talbert and Savitt, both of New York, won the doubles title in 1958 and 1959.

Wellsville Notches 74-53 Win Over Goshen Union Five

Tigers Post 12th Victory Of Season

Wellsville High took command early in the game and went on to defeat Goshen Union, 74-53, Saturday night at Beacom Memorial gym.

Several hundred fans braved a heavy snowfall to see Coach Jack McDevitt's Tigers extend their season mark to 12-3 and at the same time record their fourth triumph in succession.

Paced by the scoring of junior Bob Kiggans, the Tigers snared a 19-12 first-period lead. Kiggans dumped in 10 points in the period, including a pair of field goals and six straight free throws.

Wellsville kept the attack going in the second quarter and threw in 20 points to take a 39-27 halftime lead. Senior guard Ray Franklin sparked Wellsville's third-period assault with six points as the Tigers went ahead, 58-37.

Second-stringers saw plenty of action in the fourth period. The Tigers enjoyed a 16-point fourth quarter in coasting to the victory.

Kiggans scored 16 points in leading the scoring, while center Franklin Jackson contributed 11 and guard Mac Comparetto 10.

The Mahoning County club suffered its eighth loss in 15 games despite a 23-point performance by Lynn Barnett. He was the only Goshen regular to hit double figures with nine goals and five free throws. Loudon and Brown, two other starters, got nine points each.

In the preliminary, Coach Carl Firm's Wellsville reserves raced to an 18-2 first period lead on the way to a 64-46 victory over Goshen's reserves. Ray Crews' 11 points led the Tigers. Anderson scored 15 for Goshen Union.

Forfeit Puts Church Loop In 3-Way Tie

Three teams are tied in the Inter-Collegiate Division of the YMCA-Church League after play Saturday night.

The tie came about when it was discovered that the First Methodist team had used an ineligible player in its first game of the season against St. John's Lutheran. The game has been forfeited as a win for St. John's.

That leaves St. John's, St. Stephen's and First Methodist deadlocked with 5-1 records.

First U. P. and Trinity U. P. still remained tied for the lead in the Collegiate Division.

In Saturday's contests, St. Stephen's routed St. John's, 24-5, as Burbick tossed in 14 points. Bob Forzano scored three for the losers.

First Church of the Nazarene scored a 25-22 victory over Newell First Presbyterian. Stover and Cunningham netted 12 and 11 points, respectively, for the winners while Bailey had 16 for the Newell five.

Roush scored 13 points to pace First Methodist in a 24-6 win over Chester First Methodist. Clunk tallied four for the Chester club.

First Church of Christ picked up a 21-12 win over Second U. P. as Kinsey poured in 12 points for the winning team. Loy had six markers for Second U. P.

First U. P. came up with a 24-13 victory over Chester Christian. Oliver's 9 points were top for First U. P., while Williams dropped in 8 for Chester.

Calvary Methodist dropped a 14-9 decision to Anderson Mehodist, which was sparked by Bud Manley's 10 points. Dull and Hanselman had three each for Calvary.

Trinity U. P. scored a 17-3 victory over Chester U. P. Eckert's 8 points topped the winners.

Oakland Free Methodist posted a 33-10 decision over Grace U. P. Ken Page poured in 12 points for Oakland, while Greg Talbot's 8 featured for the losers.

Two Big Ones Set For Ohio College Ranks

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two of the season's biggest games are on tap tonight for Ohio's collegiate cagers.

One sends Ohio State's Buckeyes to Champaign for a game with Illinois, the other finds Toledo's Rockets in Athens for a tilt with Ohio University.

The Bucks, leading the Big Ten with 9-0, may have that mark dirtied a bit since they haven't won on the Illini floor since 1945. Illinois is tied for second with Indiana at 5-3, and before the curtain falls the Bucks must face the Hoosiers at Bloomington, defending champion Michigan State (5-5) at East Lansing, and fourth-place Minnesota (6-4) at Mineapolis.

Thus, despite their great record, the Bucks have no bed of roses the rest of the way—although they are favored highly to breeze into the throne room.

Ohio U. and Toledo are deadlocked at 8-1 for the Mid-American loop lead, no one else having a chance since Bowling Green is closest with 4-4. Ohio U.'s lone loss was 63-53 at Toledo, while Bowling Green hung the lone setback on the Rockets by 86-82.

The Athens team, due to the potent home floor advantage, could well turn the tables on the Rockets. Host clubs hold an exact 2-1 advantage over the visitors this year, aving won 310 and lost 155.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who boosted his all-time scoring record to 2,693 for 78 games last week with a two-game 93-point surge, gets one chance to add to his national mark this week as the Bearcats go against Houston Saturday in Texas. The "Big O" has 731 points for his 20 games this year, a nation-leading average of 36.5.

Wittenberg could clinch at least a share of the Ohio Conference crown this week by beating Denison Tuesday, and Defiance could do the same in the Mid - Ohio by trimming Bluffton Wednesday. Wittenberg, seeking its second straight crown in the sprawling Ohio loop, has a 9-0 record to second-place Muskingum's 9-2, while Defiance with 8-1 is far ahead of runnerup Ohio Northern's 6-3.

The big oddity in the Mid-Ohio is that Ashland, averaging 100.4 points for 10 games, has been able to win only six. The Eagles smothered Cedarville 134 to 93 Saturday—the season's top score in the state — after beating Lawrence Tech 102-93 the night before.

The Buckeye clubs continue to batter out-of-state opposition. Last week the Ohio's won 17 and lost 12 in interstate play, for a season record of 174-108, and a scoring advantage of 21,879 to 20,371.

Agrees To Terms

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Indians' general manager Frank Lane announced today that John Romano has agreed to contract terms for 1960. The 26-year-old former Chicago White Sox catcher is the 35th Cleveland player to sign a contract.

Andre Martin, rookie defenseman with Cleveland's hockey team, is one of 29 children of a Quebec family.

Ski Artists To Test Course Today At Squaw Valley

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—International ski racers cut loose at high speeds today testing their skills against perilous downhill courses where Olympic championships will be decided this week.

After two days of testing the men's and women's courses at lower speeds, this was the day set to go all out.

The Olympics open Thursday with the men's downhill slated for Friday and the women's on Saturday as two early features of the 11-day program.

The men will race the full two-mile course with crash helmets required. They'll start at intervals of one minute to one minute, 15 seconds.

Training runs for the women won't be on such a formal basis, but probably Tuesday they'll zoom under the same conditions.

An estimated 6,500 visitors swarmed through this 2½-mile valley Sunday in warm sunny weather to watch the athletes ski and skate.

A practice hockey game between the United States and Japan went to the Yanks 10-0 in a battle marred by penalties and near fist-fights.

Japanese Capt. Yoshihiro Miyazaka hit the ice during a scuffle with Dick Meredith from Minneapolis, Minn. The Japanese jumped up and swung his stick at Meredith who was skating away. Both were sent to the penalty box.

American Coach Jack Riley then warned his men that the next one cited for roughness would go to the showers.

Brundage Urges Flags, Hymns Be Forgotten

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 56th session of the International Olympic Committee gets down to serious business today to deal with cases involving the upcoming winter games at Squaw Valley and the summer games at Rome.

Up for immediate debate, was the latest international hot potato dropped into the August IOC laps by President Avery Brundage.

The wealthy Chicago boss of the IOC proposes that national flags and hymns be eliminated from future Olympic ceremonies.

Varied and vociferous was the reaction here and at Squaw Valley, where the 1960 winter games start Thursday.

Brundage started the controversy two days ago when the IOC sessions opened in San Francisco's War Memorial Opera House.

Contestants, he said, "should come simply as sportsmen and not as representatives of a country."

IOC Chancellor Otto Mayer of Switzerland said that with some variation he agreed with Brundage.

At Squaw Valley, Otto Lorenz, president of the Austrian Ski Assn. said: "I am against it. Raising of flags and playing of natioal hymns has become a tradition of Olympic games, and one should not discard tradition without any real cause."

Ex-Carolina Runner Credits Coach For His Latest Victory

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Prosperity has suddenly struck Jim Beatty, a former North Carolina runner who never had won anything more important than a couple of Atlantic Coast Conference championships in his college days.

Already this season he has won two big races. He beat Max Truex, one of America's top distance runners in an 8:57 two-mile, and in the New York A. C. Games in Madison Square Garden last Saturday, won the Baxter Mile in 4:05.4.

"It wasn't very hard, really," said the 5-6 Beatty today. "All I did was what the coach told me."

The coach is Mihaly Igloi, the great Hungarian distance coach, who defected after the 1956 revolution and settled in Santa Clara, Calif. He coaches the Santa Clara Youth Village, and Beatty is one of his pupils.

Before the last Olympic Games, Igloi's stable of Hungarian distance runners held every world record from 1,500 meters right up to 10,000 meters.

In view of the troubles the United States has had developing distance runners—we haven't had an Olympic champion in anything from the 1,500 meters up except for Horace Ashenfelter in the steeplechase in 1952 since 1912—it might not be a bad idea to enlist Igloi's aid.

Beatty, 25, and a former rabbit for Ron Delany, barely beat out 19-year-old Dyrol Burleson of Oregon, perhaps the No. 1 U.S. hope for the 1,500 meters in Rome this year.

A record number of 5,716 teams will bowl in the 1960 ABC tournament in Toledo, Ohio.

Ohio Teams To Battle For NAIA Tourney

ADA, Ohio (AP) — The top four teams in the Mid-Ohio League will battle for Ohio's berth in the national NAIA basketball tournament at Kansas City March 7-12.

The Ohio tournament—held by District 22 of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics — will be played at Bluffton College Feb. 29-March 1.

District 22 representatives, meeting here Sunday, selected league-leading Defiance (8-1) to compete with the second, third and fourth place finishes in the Mid-Ohio. In those spots now are Ohio Northern (6-3), Ashland (6-4), and Wilmington (5-4).

Hearn Wins Golf Title By One-Stroke Margin

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "It was like winning a 1-0 ball game."

That's the way Jim Hearn, former major league pitching star, described his one-stroke victory Sunday which made him new golf champion of major league baseball players.

The 36-year-old Hearn fired a closing round of 75 to finish with a 72-hole total of 301 and capture the National Baseball Players Golf Championship at Miami Springs Country Club.

Al Dark, veteran infielder of the Philadelphia Phillies and three - time champion of this event, was runnerup at 302. Albie Pearson of the Baltimore Orioles was third at 304.

It was the first time in the 20-year history of the event that competition was in medal play.

The marathon race is traditionally 26 miles, 385 yards long.

Celtics Move Closer To 4th Eastern Title

By The Associated Press

The remarkable Boston Celtics, brushing aside the threat imposed by Wilt Chamberlain and Co., have virtually clinched their fourth consecutive Eastern Division championship in the National Basketball Assn.

Red Auerbach's band of precisionists cut off Philadelphia's last threat over the weekend by sweeping a two-game series and lengthening their lead over the runnerup Warriors to eight games with only 14 left to play.

Chamberlain, who sat out Saturday's 122-120 loss, returned to the line-up Sunday after having some teeth extracted.

The 7 - foot - 1 Stilt, who established an NBA single-season scoring record last week, popped in 25 points and broke the league's one-season rebound mark, but the better-balanced Celtics romped to a 125-115 victory.

In other Sunday games, the Western Division leading St. Louis Hawks moved out to a 12-game lead over Detroit with a 107-105 victory over Cincinnati, and Syracuse edged Minneapolis 121-119 on Dolph Schayes layup with three seconds left.

Harness Racing Figure Dies At 50

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church here Wednesday for Joseph A. Neville, one of the nation's leading figures in harness racing and founder of the sport's Little Brown Jug race for three-year-old pacers.

The 50-year-old attorney died of a heart attack at his home here Sunday.

The Jug, which Neville founded in 1946, is staged each September as part of Grand Circuit racing at the Delaware County Fair here. The $70,000 classic is to pacing what the Hambletonian is to trotting.

Neville, known to horsemen as "Jugger Joe," was instrumental in having headquarters of the U.S. Trotting Assn. moved to Columbus from the East.

He was a USTA director since the 1930s and until recently its legal counsel. He also was a vice president of the Grand Circuit and a director of the Hambletonian Society which stages the annual trotting classic.

He had owned harness horses for a quarter-century.

Neville leaves his widow, Patricia, a son, Joseph Jr., 6, and an uncle.

Legislator Sees 'Missile Waste'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William E. Minshall (R-Ohio) accused the Air Force today of planning to waste four billion dollars on a missile that still won't work.

Even if it ever does, Minshall said, the missile—the Bomarc — will soon be obsolete. Bomarcs are to defend the coast line against bombers but would be no good, he said, against attacking missiles.

The Air Force wants to station Bomarcs around the perimeter of the United States. It concedes they are not yet effective but claims they will be as the result of an intensive program now going on.

A member of the House Defense Appropriations, Subcommittee, Minshall made a fight against spending more money on Bomarcs last year but lost in the subcommittee by two or three votes.

Keep In Trim

Size Of Servings Control Weight Loss

Serving sizes are a vital part of the reducing story. It appears that your dietitian has taken too much for granted on this score.

I By Ida Jean Kain

A forthright homemaker writes: "Well, why didn't that lady who was able to reduce tell us what she ate so others will know. I wish her good luck anyway, but think when the reducers report their success they should tell just how much of every food they ate. I hope this won't cause hard feelings, but I think it is right or I would not write it."

Fair enough. Let's be more specific about serving sizes. Will you reducers, in reporting your victories, include this needed information?

IN THIS COLUMN I will give the approximate serving sizes on the protective foods. The backbone of the menu is protein, so we'll start with the recommended serving of lean meat, fish or chicken, eggs, milk and cheese or cottage cheese.

The average serving of lean meat, non-fat fish or chicken is about one-quarter of a pound, cooked weight. To cut calories, trim off all fat. Each meal should be built around a complete protein food.

For breakfast, have an egg or three-quarters cup of hot cereal with a half cup of milk; and for lunch have a half-cup serving of cottage cheese or an ounce portion of yellow cheese or a serving of non-fat fish of the white fleshed variety.

Two 8-ounce cups of skim milk or buttermilk are needed daily. The milk can be used as a beverage or in food preparation. For example, hot soup made with skim milk adds satiety to a low calorie meal. Or a cup of coffee, half hot skim milk, is delicious and satisfying.

Hot cocoa made with a cup of skim milk is an excellent pick-up in the late afternoon. Low-calorie puddings prepared with skim milk gives a slimming finishing touch to a meal. Figure three servings to the box.

The balance of the daily food pattern includes vegetables and fruits and a limited serving of bread and butter or other starchy food.

Choose one yellow or leafy green vegetable daily. The serving size is ¾ cup. Have a second vegetable of your choice, a half-cup serving. Choose only one starchy food with each meal; at breakfast a thin slice of toast; at lunch a small roll or two thin slices of bread, and at dinner a potato or other starchy food. On a low calorie diet, a half potato at dinner allows for more variety.

THE DAILY MEALS should include two fruits, one a citrus fruit or juice (½ cup) to insure vitamin C. Butter and margarine should be limited to three half pats, each ¼ inch thick. This covers the amount used on vegetables.

The Mr. and Mrs. Reducing Plan specifies serving sizes. Happy, healthy slimming!

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for the "Mr. and Mrs. Reducing Plan" to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

Three Camps Spring Up On 'Rights' Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate divided into three camps moves gingerly today into politically charged controversy over civil rights.

Embattled Southerns, expecting the worst, were ready to spring any of several delaying traps against a move to bring a bill before the Senate.

Liberals of both political parties, advocating stronger legislation than even they will say is likely to be passed, pushed for speedy action.

In the middle ground stood Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, heading the forces that want some relatively modest but measurable gains chalked up in the protection of minority voting rights.

None of the three camps had a demonstrated majority as the long-planned starting date of the civil rights battle arrived.

The first test was scheduled late in the day on an effort to call up from the Senate calendar a bill previously passed by the House and attach civil rights proposals to it.

Many days of talk and possible round-the-clock sessions lay ahead.

It seemed inevitable, however, that the liberals and the middle ground members eventually would join forces to overpower the little band of Southern dissenters.

If necessary, there apparently would be forthcoming the required approval of two-thirds of those voting to clamp a debate limitation on them and thus guarantee eventual passage of a bill.

What form that legislation might take remained wrapped in doubt as Democratic presidential hopefuls vied with Eisenhower administration leaders to share in the credit for federal aid to disfranchised minority voters.

As a presidential hopeful, Johnson seemed likely to move toward a position where he could attract Northern Democratic support for the nomination. But he could not move so far away from the Southerners as to lose even their begrudged backing as the candidate least offensive to them.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said the Dixie contingent is under no illusion that it can prevent the passage of a civil rights bill in an election year. He said all of the political trappings are at hand for what he called "a Roman circus" with Southerners as victims.

Caught In Burglary

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Two men were caught in the act of trying to burglarize a safe at a supermarket near here Saturday night. Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Rife, who surprised the pair at work, fired two shots and the burglars fled through a side door—into the arms of waiting policemen.

In Ireland you can rent a horse-drawn, gypsy-type wagon to wander through country lanes away from the highways for $37.80 a week. The wagons, equipped with stove and refrigerator, have berths to sleep four.

Troubles Are Piling Up For Heiress And Clerk

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Troubles piled up today for a 17-year-old New York heiress who eloped with a delicatessen clerk last July.

Pretty Roberta Orr Brady of Southampton, L.I., faces a hearing on charges of stealing $3,400 from her mother to finance her honeymoon with Albert Edward Brady, 26, an $85-a-week clerk.

It developed her husband has been married once before—maybe twice—and is wanted in Houston, Tex., on an auto theft charge. He also is charged with abducting Roberta, who expects a child in three months.

"My sympathy goes out to her," said Brady's previous wife, the former Anna Jewell Euresti of Houston. "I feel so sorry for her."

Roberta, located here Saturday by the FBI, is the daughter of the late Robert Orr, an advertising executive. Her mother now is married to an exiled Persian prince, Rokneddinin Kadjar.

The Houston woman's divorce from Brady became final last September, she said.

She said Brady almost cleaned out their bank account and wrote a number of worthless checks before he walked out on her in June 1958.

Roberta's family sent a lawyer to handle her case. He posted $500 bond and got her out of jail but declined to put up the $5,000 needed to release Brady.

Dark-haired Brady, left alone in jail, blurted a tale of woe.

He and Ronni—a nickname his wife prefers to Roberta—lost their Mississippi marriage certificate. They tried to get married again in Las Vegas but failed.

The FBI once arrested him for keeping a rental car for eight months.

The Navy discharged him, claiming he was an accessory in a Boston car theft ring.

Why all the admissions?

"Because the family would bring it out anyway to break us up. I admit 'I'm wrong and I'm sorry but I still want my life with Ronni' ".

And Ronni—who says one of her chums is Gamble Benedict, the other heiress who eloped against her family's wishes—insists she still wants her life with Albert.

"I'm very happy with my husband and we hope the baby is a boy."

U.S. Court To Ponder Latest Chessman Plea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Caryl Chessman's latest appeal goes today before a three-man panel of the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, four days before his eighth date with death in the gas chamber.

The 38-year-old convict - author asked that the nine-member court sit en banc to overrule its chief judge, Justice Richard H. Chambers, who last Monday in Tucson, Ariz., turned down the same appeal, saying Chessman had "heckled his keeper long enough."

Chessman, convicted in 1948 of kidnap, robbery and forcing two women into perverted sex acts in Los Angeles, has been on death row in San Quentin Prison for 11½ years and is due to go to the gas chamber Friday.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black on Saturday refused Chessman a stay of execution, saying he found no substantial federal question involved.

The Peace Treaty of the Russo-Japanese War was signed in 1905 at Portsmouth, N. H. President Theodore Roosevelt acted as arbitrator.

Three Camps Spring Up On 'Rights' Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate divided into three camps moves gingerly today into politically charged controversy over civil rights.

Embattled Southerns, expecting the worst, were ready to spring any of several delaying traps against a move to bring a bill before the Senate.

Liberals of both political parties, advocating stronger legislation than even they will say is likely to be passed, pushed for speedy action.

In the middle ground stood Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, heading the forces that want some relatively modest but measurable gains chalked up in the protection of minority voting rights.

None of the three camps had a demonstrated majority as the long-planned starting date of the civil rights battle arrived.

The first test was scheduled late in the day on an effort to call up from the Senate calendar a bill previously passed by the House and attach civil rights proposals to it.

Many days of talk and possible round-the-clock sessions lay ahead.

It seemed inevitable, however, that the liberals and the middle ground members eventually would join forces to overpower the little band of Southern dissenters.

If necessary, there apparently would be forthcoming the required approval of two-thirds of those voting to clamp a debate limitation on them and thus guarantee eventual passage of a bill.

What form that legislation might take remained wrapped in doubt as Democratic presidential hopefuls vied with Eisenhower administration leaders to share in the credit for federal aid to disfranchised minority voters.

As a presidential hopeful, Johnson seemed likely to move toward a position where he could attract Northern Democratic support for the nomination. But he could not move so far away from the Southerners as to lose even their begrudged backing as the candidate least offensive to them.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said the Dixie contingent is under no illusion that it can prevent the passage of a civil rights bill in an election year. He said all of the political trappings are at hand for what he called "a Roman circus" with Southerners as victims.

Caught In Burglary

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Two men were caught in the act of trying to burglarize a safe at a supermarket near here Saturday night. Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Rife, who surprised the pair at work, fired two shots and the burglars fled through a side door—into the arms of waiting policemen.

In Ireland you can rent a horse-drawn, gypsy-type wagon to wander through country lanes away from the highways for $37.80 a week. The wagons, equipped with stove and refrigerator, have berths to sleep four.

Troubles Are Piling Up For Heiress And Clerk

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Troubles piled up today for a 17-year-old New York heiress who eloped with a delicatessen clerk last July.

Pretty Roberta Orr Brady of Southampton, L.I., faces a hearing on charges of stealing $3,400 from her mother to finance her honeymoon with Albert Edward Brady, 26, an $85-a-week clerk.

It developed her husband has been married once before—maybe twice—and is wanted in Houston, Tex., on an auto theft charge. He also is charged with abducting Roberta, who expects a child in three months.

"My sympathy goes out to her," said Brady's previous wife, the former Anna Jewell Euresti of Houston. "I feel so sorry for her."

Roberta, located here Saturday by the FBI, is the daughter of the late Robert Orr, an advertising executive. Her mother now is married to an exiled Persian prince, Rokneddinin Kadjar.

The Houston woman's divorce from Brady became final last September, she said.

She said Brady almost cleaned out their bank account and wrote a number of worthless checks before he walked out on her in June 1958.

Roberta's family sent a lawyer to handle her case. He posted $500 bond and got her out of jail but declined to put up the $5,000 needed to release Brady.

Dark-haired Brady, left alone in jail, blurted a tale of woe.

He and Ronni—a nickname his wife prefers to Roberta—lost their Mississippi marriage certificate. They tried to get married again in Las Vegas but failed.

The FBI once arrested him for keeping a rental car for eight months.

The Navy discharged him, claiming he was an accessory in a Boston car theft ring.

Why all the admissions?

"Because the family would bring it out anyway to break us up. I admit 'I'm wrong and I'm sorry but I still want my life with Ronni' ".

And Ronni—who says one of her chums is Gamble Benedict, the other heiress who eloped against her family's wishes—insists she still wants her life with Albert.

"I'm very happy with my husband and we hope the baby is a boy."

Revolution In The Industry

'Little Cars' Take Big Cut Of Total Sales In January

By PEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP)—The compact car boom has exploded into a full-scale revolution in the auto industry.

Falcon, Corvair and Valiant, plus their slightly older companions Rambler and Lark, accounted for almost 25 per cent of all domestic cars sold in January.

This figure has added significance since January was the only month in the entire first third of the 1960 model year in which supplies of all cars were reasonably good.

"Everything is changing," says Ben Mills, Ford vice president whose Lincoln-Mercury Division is introducing still another compact, the Comet, next month. "A revolution is underway. Nobody knows where it will end."

The 1960 model year was bound to be confusing with the entry of four new cars — the three new compacts and the Dodge Dart—right at the start. It became even more so as steel shortages curtailed production and compounded distribution problems.

Many of the long-range questions, such as who will be hurt and whether foreign cars will dwindle into oblivion, remain unanswered. The only thing definite so far is the new size cars are selling.

The five compact lines sold about 101,500 cars in January against an industry total of 455,000. Rambler's total of 34,949 put it third among all cars with Falcon fourth, only about 2,500 cars behind. Among the five compacts, Corvair ran a distant third with only about half as many sales as Falcon. Lark was fourth and Valint fifth.

Last August Rambler's George Romney, who finally convinced the Big Three that compact cars were profitable, sized up 1960 as a year in which the industry would sell 1,750,000 smaller U.S. built cars, including 500,000 Ramblers. Right now his fingers look good.

Romney also predicted the medium-price lines would fall on their faces and the tide of imports would be stemmed. In January the medium-price lines dropped 5 per cent from year-ago sales totals while the low-price lines, even with the addition of Dart, were 10 per cent below last year.

One month doesn't make a year, however, and when the medium-price lines bring out their own compacts, such as the Comet, things are sure to change. Lincoln-Mercury expects the Comet to cut into Mercury sales but declines to estimate to what extent.

Compact cars from Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac and probably Dodge will be along in the early fall.

Does all this mean standard-size cars are doomed? Nobody in Detroit thinks so, although Romney says compacts will make up 50 per cent of all car sales by 1963.

Ware Drying Unit's Ready

EAST PALESTINE — A new drier unit, tested Friday, will go into operation at the W. S. George Pottery Co. this week, clearing the way for increased production, Paul Steffens, president, announced

The new equipment, used to dry greenware, will permit the addition of 2 semi-automatic jiggers which in turn will allow 24-hour production instead of the present 8-hour daily shift, Steffens said.

The gas-fired drier will heat a two-story portion of the building where the greenware is dried.

Steffens said decorators and kilnmen will be called back early this week, followed later by more selectors, warehousemen and packers so that production will reach about 50 per cent of capacity, employing about 125.

Steffens said resumption of the operating schedule has been made possible through a $150,000 financing move by principal stockholders from Canonsburg.

Miss Nancy Jeanne Workman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Workman of New Waterford, became the bride of Earl Leroy Riegle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Riegle of Carrollton, on Feb. 6 in the sanctuary of the Christian Church of Wellsburg.

The Rev. Carl Johnson Jr., pastor performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with gladioli, snapdragons and mums.

The bride wore a white ballerina-length dress of lace over taffeta with white accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with a corsage of red rose-buds and white streamers and observed all the traditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Floor of East Palestine, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, were the attendants. Mrs. Floor wore a blue sheath dress with a bolero jacket, complemented by black accessories. She wore a corsage of miniature pink carnations. The attendants received gifts from the couple.

A dinner was held for the immediate bridal party in Steubenville.

Upon their return from a wedding trip, the couple will reside in East Palestine.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of Fairfield High School and is employed as a secretary for Midway Motor Sales, Inc., of New Waterford.

Snow Blamed In 3 Accidents

A Wellsville man was hospitalized and two others were treated at City Hospital for injuries suffered in traffic mishaps connected with the snow.

Joseph Harris, 59, of 475 14th St., Wellsville, is in "good" condition with a laceration over the right eye and bruises of the legs suffered when his car was pushed into a tree along Route 68 near Beaver Creek bridge at Smiths Ferry.

Harris, en route home from the Crucible Steel Co. where he works, was given a push by a truck which shoved his auto into a tree Sunday.

Frank Taylor, 36, of East Liverpool, another Crucible employe, was injured Sunday when his car skidded and struck a tree along Route 68 near the Smiths Ferry bridge. He received abrasions of the forehead and a possible fracture of a finger of the right hand.

Joseph Barnhart, 37, of Cartwright Ave. was treated Sunday for lacerations of fingers of the left hand suffered when it became caught between bumpers of two cars he was trying to free.

Chester Area Mishaps Are Blamed On Snow

Snow was blamed for a three-car mishap on the Chester-Newell Rd. Saturday night and the collision of a city man's car with a parked auto in Chester early Sunday morning.

Robert Lee Davis, 37, of 207 Walnut St., East Liverpool, was jailed after his car skidded while making a turn on Virginia Ave. near 3rd St. at 12:15 a. m. yesterday and hit a parked sedan owned by Curtis Cook of Virginia Ave. Damage was minor, Patrolman Harold Davis said.

Davis, charged with driving with a temporary permit without an accompanying licensed operator, posted a $37.30 bond for a hearing Tuesday night before acting mayor Roy Cashdollar.

William B. Davis, 23, of Washington St., Newell, was driver of a car, headed north on the Chester-Newell Rd., which skidded into a southbound stalled auto operated by Ronald F. McVaney, 21, of Barberton.

Dallas Simms, 17, of 2nd St., Newell, following Davis, also skidded into the stalled auto, Patrolman Davis said. Simms 1959 sedan received minor damage, but Davis' 1957 sedan and McVaney's 1954 sedan suffered considerable damage in the 7:15 p. m. crash the officer said.

2 Area Men Injured In Lisbon Car Mishap

LISBON—Two area men were injured slightly in a collision of their cars this morning at 8 at the intersection of W. Lincoln Way and the Logtown Rd.

Both drivers were taken to Salem City Hospital for treatment of lacerations. Armstrong was arrested for failure to yield the right-of-way.

East End Club Nears Top Of Violations List

The Veterans Social Club at 1042-44 Pennsylvania Ave. is among the top 15 in Ohio from the standpoint of alleged liquor law violations accumulated in the last 10 years, according to Ivan W. Smith, chief of the enforcement division of the State Liquor Control Department.

The East End club has accumulated 6 violations since 1951, a record matched by only 11 other permit-holding organizations in Ohio, Smith said. Of the total, 2 organizations have recorded 8 violations and one has been cited 9 times.

Smith conducted a study on violations at the request of Liquor Director Richard C. Crouch and Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. It is considered the first move in a campaign to clamp down on persistent violators whose continued operations tax the strength of the state's enforcement division.

Other Columbiana County organizations on Smith's list and the number of alleged violations recorded against them since 1951:

American Legion Post 442 of Salineville, 4; Eagles Aerie 772 of Wellsville, 3; Eagles Lodge 1496 in Leetonia, 2; Military Order of Cooties in East Liverpool, 2; Leetonia Hotel, 2; Salem Junior Democratic Club, 2, and VFW Post 4579 in East Palestine, 3.

State officials indicated they have under discussion a regulation providing automatic permit revocation after a given number of offenses or establishing stiffer penalties for "repeat" violations.

Neal Resigns Board's Post

Collin L. Neal, secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission for the last two years, announced today he has resigned the post.

Neal said he sent his letter of resignation to Donal A. Burcham, chairman, and mailed copies to Clarence Reagle, the other Democratic member, and Atty. Ben A. Berman, Republican member. He did not set an effective date.

Neal said he believed the confusion over the scheduling of the reorganization meeting of the commission has hurt the public's confidence in the board. The resignation might clear the way for the reorganization meeting, Neal said.

No reorganization meeting of the board has been scheduled because the members have been unable to agree on a date.

Neal was named to a one-year term in 1958 and reappointed by the Republican board in 1959. Mayor Bert H. Goodballet appointed Reagle to replace Alvin T. Babb, whose term expired, returning control to the Democrats.

Hancock Extends Signup's Deadline

Hancock County agricultural officials have extended indefinitely the deadline for farmers wishing to participate in the 1960 agricultural conservation program.

Mrs. Norma Murray, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said only 20 farmers had applied for conservation funds when the deadline passed Friday.

A total of $7,034 has been earmarked by the committee for farmers wishing to engage in conservation practices this year. Funds may be used to build ponds and watering troughs and for lime and fertilizer spreading.

Only $664 of the amount has been alloted by the committee thus far in 1960. In 1959, 73 county farmers participated in the conservation program and were alloted $6,800.

Farmers may apply for a share of the funds by visiting the ASC office in New Cumberland between 8 a. m. and 12 noon Monday through Friday. Those applying must bring soil samples, Mrs. Murray said.

Man Fined, Jailed After City Mishap

As the aftermath of a spectacular crash early Friday on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.," an East Liverpool motorist was fined and jailed today in Municipal Court.

Fred C. Keyes, 225 W. 7th St., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol and Judge Samuel M. Chertoff fined him $250 and costs and sentenced him to 5 days in jail.

He also suspended Keyes' right to drive in Ohio for six months.

Keyes pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving without a license and Judge Chertoff continued his case to permit him to produce a valid license.

Keyes was cited Friday morning after his car went off the highway and hit a pile of metal pipe stacked on the berm. It continued 234 feet before slamming into the hillside and turning completely around.

Although the United States accounts for only 6 3/10 per cent of the world's population, it owns almost 50 per cent of the world's wealth. Americans make, grow, build, sell, buy and use more goods and services than any other country in the world.

Snow Blamed In 3 Accidents

A Wellsville man was hospitalized and two others were treated at City Hospital for injuries suffered in traffic mishaps connected with the snow.

Joseph Harris, 59, of 475 14th St., Wellsville, is in "good" condition with a laceration over the right eye and bruises of the legs suffered when his car was pushed into a tree along Route 68 near Beaver Creek bridge at Smiths Ferry.

Harris, en route home from the Crucible Steel Co. where he works was given a push by a truck which shoved his auto into a tree Sunday.

Frank Taylor, 36, of East Liverpool, another Crucible employe, was injured Sunday when his car skidded and struck a tree along Route 68 near the Smiths Ferry bridge. He received abrasions of the forehead and a possible fracture of a finger of the right hand.

Joseph Barnhart, 37, of Cartwright Ave. was treated Sunday for lacerations of fingers of the left hand suffered when it became caught between bumpers of two cars he was trying to free.

Chester Area Mishaps Are Blamed On Snow

Snow was blamed for a three-car mishap on the Chester-Newell Rd. Saturday night and the collision of a city man's car with a parked auto in Chester early Sunday morning.

Robert Lee Davis, 37, of 207 Walnut St., East Liverpool, was jailed after his car skidded while making a turn on Virginia Ave. near 3rd St. at 12:15 a. m. yesterday and hit a parked sedan owned by Curtis Cook of Virginia Ave. Damage was minor, Patrolman Harold Davis said.

Davis, charged with driving with a temporary permit without an accompanying licensed operator, posted a $37.30 bond for a hearing Tuesday night before acting mayor Roy Cashdollar.

William B. Davis, 23, of Washington St., Newell, was driver of a car, headed north on the Chester-Newell Rd., which skidded into a southbound stalled auto operated by Ronald F. McVaney, 21, of Barberton.

Dallas Simms, 17, of 2nd St., Newell, following Davis, also skidded into the stalled auto, Patrolman Davis said. Simms 1959 sedan received minor damage, but Davis' 1957 sedan and McVaney's 1954 sedan suffered considerable damage in the 7:15 p. m. crash the officer said.

2 Area Men Injured In Lisbon Car Mishap

LISBON—Two area men were injured slightly in a collision of their cars this morning at 8 at the intersection of W. Lincoln Way and the Logtown Rd.

Village police said Maurace W. Armstrong, 41, of Lisbon R. D. 4 drove his 1958 convertible from Logtown Rd. onto W. Lincoln Way and into the path of another car driven by William James Baker, 19, of New Waterford. Armstrong's car, which was demolished, was knocked 150 feet by the impact.

Both drivers were taken to Salem City Hospital for treatment of lacerations. Armstrong was arrested for failure to yield the right-of-way.

East End Club Nears Top Of Violations List

The Veterans Social Club at 1042-44 Pennsylvania Ave. is among the top 15 in Ohio from the standpoint of alleged liquor law violations accumulated in the last 10 years, according to Ivan W. Smith, chief of the enforcement division of the State Liquor Control Department.

The East End club has accumulated 6 violations since 1951, a record matched by only 11 other permit-holding organizations in Ohio, Smith said. Of the total, 2 organizations have recorded 8 violations and one has been cited 9 times.

Smith conducted a study on violations at the request of Liquor Director Richard C. Crouch and Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. It is considered the first move in a campaign to clamp down on persistent violators whose continued operations tax the strength of the state's enforcement division.

Other Columbiana County organizations on Smith's list and the number of alleged violations recorded against them since 1951:

American Legion Post 442 of Salineville, 4; Eagles Aerie 772 of Wellsville, 3; Eagles Lodge 1496 in Leetonia, 2; Military Order of Cooties in East Liverpool, 2; Leetonia Hotel, 2; Salem Junior Democratic Club, 2, and VFW Post 4579 in East Palestine, 3.

State officials indicated they have under discussion a regulation providing automatic permit revocation after a given number of offenses or establishing stiffer penalties for "repeat" violations.

Neal Resigns Board's Post

Collin L. Neal, secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission for the last two years, announced today he has resigned the post.

Neal said he sent his letter of resignation to Donal A. Burcham, chairman, and mailed copies to Clarence Reagle, the other Democratic member, and Atty. Ben A. Berman, Republican member. He did not set an effective date.

Neal said he believed the confusion over the scheduling of the reorganization meeting of the commission has hurt the public's confidence in the board. The resignation might clear the way for the reorganization meeting, Neal said.

No reorganization meeting of the board has been scheduled because the members have been unable to agree on a date.

Neal was named to a one-year term in 1958 and reappointed by the Republican board in 1959. Mayor Bert H. Goodballet appointed Reagle to replace Alvin T. Babb, whose term expired, returning control to the Democrats.

Hancock County agricultural officials have extended indefinitely the deadline for farmers wishing to participate in the 1960 agricultural conservation program.

Mrs. Norma Murray, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said only 20 farmers had applied for conservation funds when the deadline passed Friday.

A total of $7,034 has been earmarked by the committee for farmers wishing to engage in conservation practices this year. Funds may be used to build ponds and watering troughs and for lime and fertilizer spreading.

Only $664 of the amount has been alloted by the committee thus far in 1960. In 1959, 73 county farmers participated in the conservation program and were alloted $6,800.

Farmers may apply for a share of the funds by visiting the ASC office in New Cumberland between 8 a. m. and 12 noon Monday through Friday. Those applying must bring soil samples, Mrs. Murray said.

Man Fined, Jailed After City Mishap

As the aftermath of a spectacular crash early Friday on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.," an East Liverpool motorist was fined and jailed today in Municipal Court.

Fred C. Keyes, 225 W. 7th St., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol and Judge Samuel M. Chertoff fined him $250 and costs and sentenced him to 5 days in jail.

He also suspended Keyes' right to drive in Ohio for six months.

Keyes pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving without a license and Judge Chertoff continued his case to permit him to produce a valid license.

Keyes was cited Friday morning after his car went off the highway and hit a pile of metal pipe stacked on the berm. It continued 234 feet before slamming into the hillside and turning completely around.

Although the United States accounts for only 6 3/10 per cent of the world's population, it owns almost 50 per cent of the world's wealth. Americans make, grow, build, sell, buy and use more goods and services than any other country in the world.

New List Of Snow Stories Accumulates On Weekend

Long after the weekend's big snow has melted and run off down the Ohio River, East Liverpool district residents will be swapping a new accumulation of stories about their experiences and comparing them with the really big snow of 1950.

Freakish weather and freakish experiences go together, as anyone knows who has lived through a flood, a torrential rain or a blizzard-like storm such as the one that tied Eastern Ohio into a knot over the weekend. The stories range from unusual experiences in traffic to wrenched backs induced by too much snow shoveling.

Tow trucks did a land-office business Sunday, helping free the autos that were abandoned in drifts or along roadsides during the height of the storm. And there was the usual rush to service stations for tire chains — one way of assuring traction in deep snow.

East Liverpool area fire departments asked co-operation of residents in uncovering fire hydrants. Anyone who lives near a fire plug should make certain it is uncovered in order that it can be located quickly in an emergency, firemen said.

Fire Chief Robert Lewis at Wellsville urged residents to use caution in thawing frozen water lines. He warned against the use of an open flame and suggested that hot water be poured over the frozen section. He also said that a heating pad or hot iron set on the section will do the job.

Nurses living in rural Hancock County areas were taken to work at the Weirton General Hospital over the weekend by a jeep driven by Sam Pusateri, assistant administrator.

Municipal Court was held as usual today but it took some doing by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

The judge notified Baliff Wilbert Taylor Sunday afternoon he was stranded at a New York City airport, and might not be on hand for the court session.

However, the judge took a train from New York City, arriving in Pittsburgh at 5 this morning and then caught a bus to reach East Liverpool.

The heavy snowfall, which paralyzed traffic, was blamed for one theft, East Liverpool police reported.

Officers said a thief, whose car apparently was stranded in the deep drifts, stole a set of 9.20x15 chains Sunday afternoon from Chan's Gulf Station at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St.

But if the thief didn't have a small truck, the chains wouldn't do him much good since they are too big for auto tires.

Reminiscent of the "Big Snow" of 1950, motorists had their share of troubles in negotiating even the slighest grades Saturday night.

Traffic moved up the long, steep St. Clair Ave. Saturday night but it was at a snail's pace with wheels skidding on the packed snow and ice. And there always was the danger one of the skidding autos would strike cars parked on the east side of the hill.

Street crews attempting to ash and salt the main thoroughfares fought a losing battle as the steady snowfall quickly covered the ashes.

High winds plagued crews in the rural areas. Although main roads were passable, most side streets were blocked by high drifts.

And even after the crews managed to open up one lane on side streets, motorists still faced the problem of removing drifted snow from driveways. Many of the drifts were at least 3 feet high.

Several of the city's service stations were swamped with orders for auto chains from motorists trapped in the storm. A few exhausted their supply and had to order more Saturday night. Auto chains generally cost from $11 to $15.

Mishaps Hurt 9 On Weekend

Three men injured in falls over the weekend remain in "good" condition today at City Hospital, where six adults and youngsters were treated after separate mishaps.

The Rev. Charles Hendershot, 50, of 714 Bradshaw Ave. suffered a possible dislocation of the left shoulder in a fall down cellar steps at home Saturday.

Francis (Fritz) Eckert, 46, of 1034 Riverview St., a printer at The Review, received a possible fracture of the right wrist in a fall in snow on Jennings Ave.

In a fall on 9th St. Saturday night, Richard Walker, 42, of 917 May St., suffered a possible fracture of the left hip.

In other accidents, James Salsberry, 33, of 208 W. 7th St., was treated Saturday night for a laceration of the lip received in a fall in snow on the Diamond.

Mrs. Alta Twist, 1645 Holiday St., suffered a possible fracture of the left arm and bruises of the elbow when she tripped on a rug and fell backwards onto her arm Saturday.

Mrs. Patricia Matthews, 23, of Empire was admitted Saturday with a fractured wrist suffered in a fall, but was released later.

Clyde Tuttle, 28, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, a mechanic, was treated for an injury of the left hand received when his hand became caught against a transmission while working on a car.

Kip Cox, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Cox of 229 Louisiana Ave., Chester, suffered abrasions of the right hand which became caught in a car door.

Frank Latynski, 44, of Hammondsville R. D. 1, a farmer, was treated Saturday for a laceration of a finger received on a manure spreader.

William Faulkner, noted Mississippi author, was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for his novel, "A Fable," in 1955.
